NATION'S AIR FORCES ARE ON TRIAL TODAY

SPECIAL AIR INQUIRY BOARD STARTS SESSIONS

ACTING SECRETARY OF WAR
DWIGHT DAVIS IS FIRST WITNESS

COL. MITCHELL, FIERY CRITIC
OF AIR SERVICE, SUMMONED
THURSDAY

By WILLIAM J. McEVROY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 21. — The nation's air forces were on trial today.

President Coolidge's special air inquiry board, which will determine the place of aviation in our system of national defense, opened its first session in a committee room of the house of representatives with acting Secretary of War Dwight Davis summoned as first witness.

A court of inquiry also was convening in Lakehurst, N. J., under Admiral Hilarly P. Jones, chief of the navy staff, to investigate the fateful crash of the dirigible Shenandoah. The court will hear testimony from survivors of the airship.

Sessions of the special board are expected to proceed with tranquility until about Thursday when Colonel William Mitchell, fiery critic of existing air policies of the war and navy departments, is scheduled to occupy the witness chair.

After a short statement by Dwight Morrow, New York banker and chairman of the board, explaining the purpose and functions of the special committee, the program called for Davis to read his prepared testimony. It pictured the work and efforts of the air service and touched on the progress in the aviation commercial field. Detailed testimony and answers to questions from board members relative to involved activities by the air service will be offered by Major General Mason T. Patrick, air service chief.

Major General John L. Hines and Brigadier General Hugh A. Drum, chief and assistant chief of staff, respectively, were available to aid Davis and tell the board of the staff's policies and feelings toward aviation.

The navy will hold the center of the stage Tuesday with Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, and other officers and officials appearing.

TESTIFIES

Washington, Sept. 21.—The army air service equipment is inadequate in numbers and part of it built during the war, unsatisfactory in condition, acting Secretary of War Davis told the president's National Aircraft Commission at its opening session here today.

"Lack of funds, due to the economy policies of the administration is the cause of this condition which can be remedied only by money," Davis said.

"I can see no reason to be panicky about this condition," Davis said, adding that "in the war department the air service appropriation in recent years has been consistently favored, sometimes at the expense of other services."

Davis' long statement required nearly an hour to read.

The "Mitchell plan" for a unified national defense arm was combatted by the acting war chief with a quotation from Secretary of War Weeks' statement before a congressional committee investigating this proposal last winter. Weeks, whose illness has kept him away from his desk for the last four months, said at that time:

"In my opinion no organization should be set up under which it will be necessary for any department to apply to another department for tools required to conduct its operations. I believe the present organization under the national defense act, providing for an air service as an integral part of the army, is sound and should not be altered."

"Our combat forces must be organized in the most efficient manner for war and not for peace time administration and operation. All

PRES. COOLIDGE NEARLY RUN DOWN BY AUTOMOBILE

SECRET SERVICE MAN THRUSTS
HIM OUT OF DANGER
PATH

ONLY MONTH AGO MRS. COOLIDGE WAS NEARLY RUN DOWN BY MOTORCYCLE

Washington, Sept. 21. — (UP) — Even the president of the United States is not immune from the dangers of crossing streets in front of automobiles.

Last night the president was enjoying his evening walk when, as he stepped into a street intersection, an automobile bore down on him.

John J. Fitzgerald of the secret service grasped the president by the arm and shoved him to safety. Then Fitzgerald jumped onto the running board of the car and arrested the driver, Nathan B. Smith of Baltimore for "cutting corners and failing to give way to pedestrians."

Because the particular pedestrian whose safety he had endangered was the president of the United States, bail was fixed at $3,500.

Mr. Coolidge's experience duplicates that of Mrs. Coolidge a month ago at Swampscott, Mass., when she was nearly run down by a motorcycle and was saved by a secret service man who thrust her from the path of the speeding machine.

The mob took Ivy to a wooded section near the scene of his alleged crime and burned him at the stake.

Ivy was said to have confessed to attacking the girl, who was the daughter of Bob Gaines, a farmer near here.

Taylor Falls, Minn., Sept. 21. — (UP) — Rivermen dragged the St. Croix river at the Dells near here today in an effort to reclaim the body of Irene Aaby, 9, who with Evelyn Wampler, 12, was drowned in its treacherous waters yesterday.

Irene fell from a cliff 60 feet above the river while on a sightseeing trip with her parents. Evelyn who was with her at the time of the accident, plunged into the swirling waters after her playmate.

Hundreds of tourists watched helplessly from the rocky banks as Evelyn made a heroic but futile attempt to save the smaller girl. An accomplished swimmer, she made a gallant fight against the swift currents but was pulled down by her terror-stricken companion just as it seemed she might gain the shore.

Lusius Tangen, 25, dived from the cliff after the children. After 20 minutes of desperate swimming he recovered Evelyn's body but was unable to find that of Irene. Efforts to recover the body by dragging failed yesterday.

Parents of both the children live in Minneapolis.

The board was exonerated after a hearing by the governor.

HAS STARTLING INNOVATION IN TEACHING SCHOOLS

"NO CHILD SHALL FAIL" IS SUBSTANCE OF GOAL OF DR. ALFRED HALL QUEST

PLAN WATCHED WITH INTEREST BY PEDAGOGUES OF AMERICA

Milwaukee, Sept. 21. — (UP) — In taking over the reins at Milwaukee schools today, Dr. Alfred Hall-Quest, noted Columbia University educator, will introduce an innovation so startling in educational work that pedagogues of America are expected to follow his plan with much interest.

"No child shall fail," is in substance the goal aimed at by Dr. Hall-Quest. This idea has been tried before by the savant, in individual classes but never before has he had a chance to test out his claim on as widespread a basis as is now afforded.

In order to accomplish this he has resigned from Columbia and refused a contract for a year's lecture tour. Among other tenets in the Hall-Quest doctrine are:

The child should not be tailored to fit the school, but the school made over to fit each child. If a child flunks it is the fault of the school.

The child should be taught to use his mind as well as his hands.

The teachers should give the child the right start toward the solving of problems and lessons so that parents should not be called upon to assist in preparing lessons.

There should be a minimum of home work. The pupil should be taught to determine his best hours for study and then made to concentrate on those hours.

WEEK END AUTO CRASHES FATAL

Chicago, Sept. 21. — (UP) — Mrs. George R. Murray, 50, Minneapolis, is in a psychopathic hospital, in a dazed condition. The woman is unable to give a coherent account of herself. She was found wandering at the Chicago & Northwestern railroad station early today.

BELIEVE CLUE FOUND IN THE EDWARDS' MURDER

MILL CITY POLICE HOLD MAN
AND WOMAN FOR NEW
ULM AUTHORITIES

EDWARDS SLAIN IN CHICAGO &
NORTHWESTERN DEPOT
HOLDUP LAST WEEK

Minneapolis, Sept. 21. — (UP) — A man and a woman were held by police here today for New Ulm authorities in connection with the murder of William Edwards in a Chicago & Northwestern depot holdup there early last week.

They are Mike Abdo, 24, under a nine year sentence at Stillwater penitentiary for conviction on a statutory offense at Mankato, at liberty now on a writ for retrial, and Mrs. Jane McIntyre, 28, arrested with him in an apartment house.

Abdo and Mrs. McIntyre had not left their apartment since the day after the murder when they moved in, neighbors told police. Similarity of their automobile to one seen at New Ulm shortly after the robbery led to their arrest.

Edwards was slain when a lone bandit appeared at the window of the station office and commanded him and Thomas Wright, the night telegrapher, to hold up their hands. He made a move for a gun and was shot down. The robber escaped with $250 in cash.

Abdo and Mrs. McIntyre are to be taken to New Ulm for examination. Another man was arrested on suspicion of complicity, at Mankato, last week.

CHAPMAN, "PRINCE OF BANDITS," FILES HIS APPEAL PAPERS

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 21. — (UP) — Gerald Chapman, "prince of bandits," who is now under a death sentence here, today filed through his attorneys his brief in support of the appeal from his conviction of having murdered a policeman at New Britain, Conn.

The brief cites 12 instances of alleged prejudicial error in Chapman's trial, practically all of which are technical.

The allegation includes claims that the state failed to connect its chain of evidence in accordance with promises made in court, that the state's attorney was guilty of prejudicial conduct and that irrelevant testimony was permitted. The brief will probably be argued next month.

Peary, the Airplane
Carrier of MacMillan,
Conquers Storm Area

Washington, Sept. 21. — (UP) — After fighting high seas and gales for 19 hours the Peary, airplane carrier of the MacMillan expedition, is snugly sheltered in a haven on the Labrador coast near Bateu Harbor, having successfully crossed the treacherous Davis Strait between Greenland and Labrador, the National Geographic society was advised by radio today. The schooner Bowdoin, however, has not yet been able to negotiate the passage owing to the gales and last night was tied to a rock in Godthaabfjord on the Greenland coast, riding out the storm.

"We have been running for cover from one cove to another, dropping anchor in sheltered spots and raising it when it has dragged before the power of shifting gales," Commander MacMillan notified the society today.

Artesian Water for Winona

CHARGE GRAFTING IN GOODS OF THE DEAD IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 21. — (UP) — Alleged grafting in the goods of the dead has resulted in a shake up in the coroner's office here, it was learned today. Coroner Oscar Wolff announced three members of his staff already have been discharged for taking valuable watches and jewelry off the bodies that are brought to the morgue and replacing them with articles of far less value.

In some instances the bodies were stripped of valuables and no attempt made to replace them, the coroner said.

Wolff cited a recent auction sale of goods taken from the dead in which the estates of 400 persons were sold for a total smaller than $250. The coroner said the sale was held without his knowledge.

LITTLE GIRL WITH FLAMING RED HAIR CHICAGO GUN WOMAN

Chicago, Sept. 21. — (UP) — The little girl with the flaming red hair and the hazel eyes who has been reported as a dangerous gun woman by so many taxi drivers recently is safely behind the bars. In a confession obtained by detectives the little girl said her name was Mrs. Elizabeth Casselman, 16, and that she had been helping her husband and two other men hold up taxicabs.

"We were trying to raise enough money to go to California," he said. "We always used a big butcher knife. When we pressed it against a taxicab's back he always turned white and shelled out. Guess he thought we had a gun."

Mrs. Casselman's husband and the two other men are said to have partially admitted participating in the holdups.

MOVEMENT TO CLEANSE LABOR OF RADICALS

IN OPENING ADDRESS
MADE

Austin, Minn., Sept. 21. — (UP) — A movement to cleanse the Minnesota Federation of Labor of radicals was launched at the opening of the 43rd annual convention today.

"Jake" Herzog, chairman of the board of commissioners of Mower county and a member of the machinists' union, attacked "Reds" and communists in his address, welcoming delegates to the convention.

In opening Herzog paid a tribute to the late Samuel Gompers and urged the federation to purge its ranks of evil influences.

"The American Federation of Labor will never be destroyed from the outside, but there are forces at work from the inside," he said. "Some of those who would destroy the federation are hirelings of outsiders."

Mayor W. D. Owen, a railroad engineer, extended a welcome in behalf of the city and F. H. McCullough, president of the Austin business Men's Association, extended the greetings of business men.

The convention was opened at 10 A. M. and today's sessions were largely given to speeches and reports.

VOLSTEAD OPPOSES ANY MODIFICATIONS

Granite Falls, Minn., Sept. 21. — "The prohibition law is accomplishing fine things and I am strongly opposed to any modification of its provisions," Andrew Volstead, author of the national law, told the United Press today.

"If the law is changed it should be made more stringent rather than more liberal," said the former congressman.

"I have paid no attention to the brewers' proposals but if the modifications they suggest include legalizing of light wines and beer, I am certain they will never receive endorsement of the Anti-Saloon League."

Volstead declared the report of the Federal Council of Churches was a manifestation of "cold feet." He expressed confidence that nothing would come of the liberalization scheme.

POLICE SAY WOMAN USED 2 BARRELS OF GUN ON HUSBAND

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 21. — (UP) — Mrs. Louis Kramer, 35, who shot and killed her husband, Louis, at Oakwood Beach, near here, yesterday, was bound over to circuit court for trial when arraigned here today. Mrs. Kramer shot her husband with a shotgun, firing two shots, both of which took effect, according to police.

IDEA VIEWED ASKANCE BY ANTI- SALOON LEAGUE

BREWERS CLAIM THEY WILL
BATTLE BOOTLEGGERS AND
SELLERS OF LIQUOR

PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED AT CON-
VENTION OF U. S. BREWERS
ASSOCIATION

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 21. — A new plan to enforce prohibition through liberalizing the Volstead act and a renewal of the controversy over the success or failure of prohibition today stirred wets, dry and church circles of the nation.

Brewers of beer are advancing the liberalization idea, which is viewed askance by the Anti-Saloon League and has encountered much opposition among the brewers themselves.

The plan, which will be discussed at a convention of the United States Brewers' Association in New York Tuesday, provides that the brewers in return for liberalization will throw their powerful support squarely against the bootleggers and other illegal purveyors of hard booze.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, who disclosed that the brewers had brought their plan to the league for discussion, said today that his organization has little hope that the brewers will be able to agree on a plan which includes law enforcement but that if they do, congress and the people ought to give the plan a thorough hearing.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for the league and the Federal Council of Churches exchanged views on the recent report of the council's research department, which found a disturbing trend in the nation's social life and attitude toward law as a result of the first five years of prohibition. The report adversely criticized many of the results of prohibition and many features of the enforcement attempts.

The Church Council, through its general secretary, Rev. Samuel McCrea Cavert, in reply to the numerous denunciations of the report, reiterated the faith of the council itself in prohibition and declared that it was up to the churches of the nation to promote its success by a campaign of education.

Volstead declared the report of the Federal Council of Churches was a manifestation of "cold feet." He expressed confidence that nothing would come of the liberalization scheme.

GOVERNOR EXONERATES RAMSEY COUNTY BOARD

St. Paul, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Complaint of Sheriff John Wagner that the Ramsey county board which last week voted to oust him from his living quarters at the county jail did so on the strength of false statements by some of its members was dismissed by Governor Theodore Christianson today.

Wagner said charges that he made profit from feeding of prisoners were false. He challenged his accusers to produce figures to substantiate their accusations and branded their statements as deliberate lies.

The board was exonerated after a hearing by the governor.

INDIANA AND KENTUCKY LIGHT SHOCKS

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 21.—(UP)—Comparatively little damage was done by the earthquake shocks Sunday in southern Indiana and western Kentucky, according to the checkup today.

Many were aroused early Sunday when three distinct shocks, accompanied by a low rumbling noise, jarred this territory. The quakes occurred at 2 a. m., 3:10 a. m. and 5 a. m. Windows were shaken and dishes rattled on shelves, but no material property damage was reported.

HAS STARTLING INNOVATION IN TEACHING SCHOOLS

"NO CHILD SHALL FAIL" IS SUB-STANCE OF GOAL OF DR.
ALFRED HALL QUEST

PLAN WATCHED WITH INTEREST
BY PEDAGOGUES OF AMERICA

Milwaukee, Sept. 21.—(UP)—In taking over the reins at Milwaukee schools today, Dr. Alfred Hall-Quest, noted Columbia University educator, will introduce an innovation so startling in educational work that pedagogues of America are expected to follow his plan with much interest.

"No child shall fail," is in substance the goal aimed at by Dr. Hall-Quest. This idea has been tried before by the savant, in individual classes but never before has he had a chance to test out his claim on as widespread a basis as is now afforded.

In order to accomplish this he has resigned from Columbia and refused a contract for a year's lecture tour. Among other tenets in the Hall-Quest doctrine are:

The child should not be tailored to fit the school, but the school made over to fit each child. If a child flunks it is the fault of the school.

The child should be taught to use his mind as well as his hands.

The teachers should give the child the right start toward the solving of problems and lessons so that parents should not be called upon to assist in preparing lessons.

There should be a minimum of home work. The pupil should be taught to determine his best hours for study and then made to concentrate on those hours.

BELIEVE CLUE FOUND IN THE EDWARDS' MURDER

MILL CITY POLICE HOLD MAN
AND WOMAN FOR NEW
ULM AUTHORITIES

EDWARDS SLAIN IN CHICAGO &
NORTHWESTERN DEPOT
HOLDUP LAST WEEK

Minneapolis, Sept. 21.—(UP)—A man and a woman were held by police here today for New Ulm authorities in connection with the murder of William Edwards in a Chicago & Northwestern depot holdup there early last week.

They are Mike Abdo, 24, under a nine year sentence at Stillwater penitentiary for conviction on a statutory offense at Mankato, at liberty now on a writ for retrial, and Mrs. Jane McIntyre, 28, arrested with him in an apartment house.

Abdo and Mrs. McIntyre had not left their apartment since the day after the murder when they moved in, neighbors told police. Similarity of their automobile to one seen at New Ulm shortly after the robbery led to their arrest.

Edwards was slain when a lone bandit appeared at the window of the station office and commanded him and Thomas Wright, the night telegrapher, to hold up their hands. He made a move for a gun and was shot down. The robber escaped with $250 in cash.

Abdo and Mrs. McIntyre are to be taken to New Ulm for examination. Another man was arrested on suspicion of complicity, at Mankato, last week.

CHAPMAN, "PRINCE OF BANDITS," FILES HIS APPEAL PAPERS

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 21.—(UP)—Gerald Chapman, "prince of bandits," who is now under a death sentence here, today filed through his attorneys his brief in support of the appeal from his conviction of having murdered a policeman at New Britain, Conn.

The brief cites 12 instances of alleged prejudicial error in Chapman's trial, practically all of which are technical.

The allegation includes claims that the state failed to connect its chain of evidence in accordance with promises made in court, that the state's attorney was guilty of prejudicial conduct and that irrelevant testimony was permitted. The brief will probably be argued next month.

Peary, the Airplane Carrier of MacMillan, Conquers Storm Area

Washington, Sept. 21.—(UP)—After fighting high seas and gales for 19 hours the Peary, airplane carrier of the MacMillan expedition, is snugly sheltered in a haven on the Labrador coast near Bateu Harbor, having successfully crossed the treacherous Davis Strait between Greenland and Labrador, the National Geographic society was advised by radio today.

The schooner Bowdoin, however, has not yet been able to negotiate the passage owing to the gales and last night was tied to a rock in Godthaabfjord on the Greenland coast, riding out the storm.

"We have been running for cover from one cove to another, dropping anchor in sheltered spots and raising it when it has dragged before the power of shifting gales," Commander MacMillan notified the society today.

LITTLE GIRL WITH FLAMING RED HAIR CHICAGO GUN WOMAN

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(UP)—The little girl with the flaming red hair and the hazel eyes who has been reported as a dangerous gun woman by so many taxi drivers recently is safely behind the bars.

In a confession obtained by detectives the little girl said her name was Mrs. Elizabeth Casselman, 16, and that she had been helping her husband and two other men hold up taxicabs.

"We were trying to raise enough money to go to California," he said. "We always used a big butcher knife. When we pressed it against a taxicab's back he always turned white and shelled out. Guess he thought we had a gun."

Mrs. Casselman's husband and the two other men are said to have partially admitted participation in the holdups.

MOVEMENT TO CLEANSE LABOR OF RADICALS

LAUNCHED AT OPENING OF THE
STATE FEDERATION OF LAB-OR CONVENTION

'JAKE' HERZOG ATTACKS 'REDS'
IN OPENING ADDRESS
MADE

Austin, Minn., Sept. 21.—(UP)—A movement to cleanse the Minnesota Federation of Labor of radicals was launched at the opening of the 43rd annual convention today.

'Jake' Herzog, chairman of the board of commissioners of Mower county and a member of the machinists' union, attacked "Reds" and communists in his address, welcoming delegates to the convention.

In opening Herzog paid a tribute to the late Samuel Gompers and urged the federation to purge its ranks of evil influences.

"The American Federation of Labor will never be destroyed from the outside, but there are forces at work from the inside," he said. "Some of those who would destroy the federation are hirelings of outsiders."

Mayor W. D. Owen, a railroad engineer, extended a welcome in behalf of the city and F. H. McCullough, president of the Austin business Men's Association, extended the greetings of business men.

The convention was opened at 10 A. M. and today's sessions were largely given to speeches and reports.

CHARGE GRAFTING IN GOODS OF THE DEAD IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Alleged grafting in the goods of the dead has resulted in a shake up in the coroner's office here, it was learned today. Coroner Oscar Wolff announced three members of his staff already have been discharged for taking valuable watches and jewelry off the bodies that are brought to the morgue and replacing them with articles of far less value.

In some instances the bodies were stripped of valuables and no attempt made to replace them, the coroner said.

Wolff cited a recent auction sale of goods taken from the dead in which the estates of 400 persons were sold for a total smaller than $250. The coroner said the sale was held without his knowledge.

IDEA VIEWED ASKANCE BY ANTI- SALOON LEAGUE

BREWERS CLAIM THEY WILL
BATTLE BOOTLEGGERS AND
SELLERS OF LIQUOR

PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED AT CON-
VENTION OF U. S. BREWERS
ASSOCIATION

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 21.—A new plan to enforce prohibition through liberalizing the Volstead act and a renewal of the controversy over the success or failure of prohibition today stirred wets, dry and church circles of the nation.

Brewers of beer are advancing the liberalization idea, which is viewed askance by the Anti-Saloon League and has encountered much opposition among the brewers themselves.

The plan, which will be discussed at a convention of the United States Brewers' Association in New York Tuesday, provides that the brewers in return for liberalization will throw their powerful support squarely against the bootleggers and other illegal purveyors of hard booze.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, who disclosed that the brewers had brought their plan to the league for discussion, said today that his organization has little hope that the brewers will be able to agree on a plan which includes law enforcement but that if they do, congress and the people ought to give the plan a thorough hearing.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for the league and the Federal Council of Churches exchanged views on the recent report of the council's research department, which found a disturbing trend in the nation's social life and attitude toward law as a result of the first five years of prohibition. The report adversely criticized many of the results of prohibition and many features of the enforcement attempts.

The Church Council, through its general secretary, Rev. Samuel McCrea Cavert, in reply to the numerous denunciations of the report, reiterated the faith of the council itself in prohibition and declared that it was up to the churches of the nation to promote its success by a campaign of education.

VOLSTEAD OPPOSES ANY MODIFICATIONS

Granite Falls, Minn., Sept. 21.—"The prohibition law is accomplishing fine things and I am strongly opposed to any modification of its provisions," Andrew Volstead, author of the national law, told the United Press today.

"If the law is changed it should be made more stringent rather than more liberal," said the former congressman.

"I have paid no attention to the brewers' proposals but if the modifications they suggest include legalizing of light wines and beer, I am certain they will never receive endorsement of the Anti-Saloon League."

Volstead declared the report of the Federal Council of Churches was a manifestation of "cold feet." He expressed confidence that nothing would come of the liberalization scheme.

SUMMER BID ADIEU TO U. S. A.

FREEZING TEMPERATURES HERALDED IN SOUTHERN CANADA

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Summer came to an end today with freezing temperatures in southern Canada and a wave of cold air rolling down over the central states.

Today's weather contrasted sharply with the equinoctial freakish weather of the week-end. The snow storm that struck a section of Montana Saturday and the new seasonal heat marks recorded in several mid-western states gave way to much lower temperatures throughout the forecast area.

Topcoats were worn with comfort in Chicago, where the mercury dropped to 50 degrees shortly before dawn.

Continued cold, increasing cloudiness and showers were forecast today in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Milwaukee Shivers

Milwaukee, Sept. 21.—Milwaukee and the rest of the state shivered today as a stiff northeast wind off the lake sent the mercury down to the fifties and brought the first indications of fall.

The drop came suddenly Sunday evening and within 12 hours the mercury had descended 24 degrees from 80 to 56.

40 Degree Drop in St. Paul

St. Paul, Sept. 21.—A 40 degree drop in temperature heralded the advent of autumn here today.

After a record breaking heat wave during the closing days of summer, in which the mercury reached a high mark of 91, the temperature dropped yesterday to 51.

Today Minnesota shivered to work with thermometers registering 39.

Hanks will lecture at Harvard on the teaching of the blind. His grandfather, Ephraim Hanks, was a cousin of Nancy Hanks, mother of Abraham Lincoln.

Kota experienced its first killing frost of the season last night. The temperature here reached a low of 29 degrees.

"I Never Dreamed There Was That Much"

That remark was made by a young lady who brought her bank in to us the other day to be opened. She had been dropping in the nickels and dimes that came to her from week to week, and she was absolutely astonished when we opened the little bank and counted her savings.

She started a savings account and will use the same system again.

TWO GUNMEN FOR ST. LOUIS TONG RUN AFOUL OF POLICE

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 21.—(UP)—Two gun men for a St. Louis tong "got" their man here early today but in fleeing from the scene of the shooting reckoned not upon the vigilance and resourcefulness of the authorities at Carlinville. As a result they are in custody and if their man dies they may stand trial for murder.

Long Ling, proprietor of a Chinese laundry here, was shot by the gunmen shortly before daylight. After the shooting his assailants Frank Frank, a Chinese, and Orin Bird, a negro, both of St. Louis, jumped into an automobile and started back to St. Louis on the hard road. At Carlinville they found the road blocked by city police and deputy sheriffs with riot guns and surrendered.

Several thousand dollars were found on the roulette and baccarat tables around which the men were grouped.

FREEZING TEMPERATURES HERALDED IN SOUTHERN CANADA

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Summer came to an end today with freezing temperatures in southern Canada and a wave of cold air rolling down over the central states.

Today's weather contrasted sharply with the equinoctial freakish weather of the week-end. The snow storm that struck a section of Montana Saturday and the new seasonal heat marks recorded in several mid-western states gave way to much lower temperatures throughout the forecast area.

Topcoats were worn with comfort in Chicago, where the mercury dropped to 50 degrees shortly before dawn.

Continued cold, increasing cloudiness and showers were forecast today in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Milwaukee Shivers

Milwaukee, Sept. 21.—Milwaukee and the rest of the state shivered today as a stiff northeast wind off the lake sent the mercury down to the fifties and brought the first indications of fall.

The drop came suddenly Sunday evening and within 12 hours the mercury had descended 24 degrees from 80 to 56.

40 Degree Drop in St. Paul

St. Paul, Sept. 21.—A 40 degree drop in temperature heralded the advent of autumn here today.

After a record breaking heat wave during the closing days of summer, in which the mercury reached a high mark of 91, the temperature dropped yesterday to 51.

Today Minnesota shivered to work with thermometers registering 39.

BLIND AND CRIPPLED MAN, WHO HAS EARNED $100,000, TO LECTURE AT HARVARD

Although he was blinded and both hands were blown off 22 years ago by the explosion of a box of dynamite caps, Nymphias C. Hanks is to deliver a series of lectures at Harvard University. Despite his great handicap, he worked his way through college and earned nearly $100,000 by lecturing and from the farm he operates in Utah. Hanks will lecture at Harvard on the teaching of the blind. His grandfather, Ephraim Hanks, was a cousin of Nancy Hanks, mother of Abraham Lincoln.

kota experienced its first killing frost of the season last night. The temperature here reached a low of 29 degrees.

Fairmont—The city tax levy received its greatest increase in history late Saturday when members of the city council voted to clear the city of debt. Heretofore the practice has been to levy a nominal sum for interest payments only.

"I Never Dreamed There Was That Much"

That remark was made by a young lady who brought her bank in to us the other day to be opened. She had been dropping in the nickels and dimes that came to her from week to week, and she was absolutely astonished when we opened the little bank and counted her savings.

She started a savings account and will use the same system again.

A dime a day, remember, means $35.00 in a year, and that doesn't include the interest. That's how it accumulates.

Learn to save a little every day. It doesn't mean any sacrifice. You will enjoy the saving game when you get a savings account started at this bank.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE INVESTIGATES ENTIRE CHICAGO AREA

INVESTIGATION WIDENED ACCOUNT OF YORKVILLE, ILL., CASE

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(UP)—The entire Chicago area was included today in the department of justice investigations into the alleged petting and coddling of federal prisoners who have been and are serving their sentences in county jails.

The investigation was widened as the result of reports reaching the department of justice here that Walter C. Cline, sentenced to serve 60 days in the Kendall county jail in Yorkville, Ill., actually was in the prison three days of the time and in New York and other eastern cities the remaining 57 days.

Coming after the Torrio case at Waukegan, Ill., and the Druggan case in Chicago, this report caused the department to begin an examination of the strictness with which federal sentences have been carried out in other cities.

Minneapolis, Sept. 21.—(UP)—W. J. Schwab, a self confessed practical joker, hired two men at $20 each to horsewhip his wife, police charged today.

Modes Predicted by French Makers

Short Skirts and Ensemble to Remain—Embroidery Is Featured.

The virtue of patience, and its inevitable rewards are now becoming apparent to those ladies whose slender budgets are forever placing annoying strictures upon their sartorial fancies. Midsummer is proverbially the time for economical wardrobe acquisitions, and for the thrifty and long-waiting the hour of opportunity has struck. The problem is not nearly so simple as it seems—the numerous ladies who await this moment to complete their outfits are concerned far less with today than with tomorrow, and the new frock or coat or hat is acquired principally with an eye to its future utility. Obviously, says a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, it becomes necessary to approximate the next quirks and basic changes in fashion before proceeding, and it is equally essential to recognize modes whose vogues are losing their former potent appeal. The following considerations are directed toward those ladies who now are hesitantly approaching their closets after an unseasonal absence dictated by the laws of economics.

Moderately Short Skirt.
The question of skirt length is as mooted as ever. The acute abbreviations of some spring and summer models brought the few remaining Grundys to their feet with the usual philippics, but the remnants of that once large army are a little faded these days and their lamentations are of no effect. Bizarre extremes in any style are checked by their own shortcomings, and no woman who has witnessed another fare forth in knee-length skirt will ever wish to imitate her. And so the new skirt length will vary from about three to six inches below the knees, and there will be the expected dissenters, some Victorian in their inhibitions, others crude in their exhibitions.

A question that invariably presents itself in considering the new season is the silhouette. The diversity of opinion on this subject is unusual—many contend that the flare will be the dominating factor and an equal number insist that the unadorned straight line is due to return. The latter are principally sentimentalists who live in the good old days and opportunists who once looked attractive in the garb of straight simplicity. As a matter of fact the youthful slim-line silhouette has been quite eclipsed by an outline which emphasizes width anywhere from the waistline downward. The term "flare" means a sudden widening, and if you insist upon that connotation, the flare, except in its more tempered versions, will hardly be the ruling spirit of next season's fashions. The modish silhouette will emphasize a distinct wideness at some portion of the skirt—it may be a new interpretation of the hemline flare, it may be achieved in numerous and novel ways—but it will be neither straight nor ceaselessly slim and its departures from the narrow path will concentrate on the skirt section. Our preference is for a silhouette which utilizes back fullness and is otherwise fairly straight.

The Persistent Ensemble.
While the ensemble will again be featured for autumn, as a mark of chic its position will be neutral. In other words, it will neither designate its wearer as smart, nor will it stamp her as demodee. The ensemble has been a vogue too long and its numbers are far too numerous for it to be considered chic as a theme. Distinctly new interpretations of it will certainly find their way to the ranks

Klansmen Attend Funeral of Mrs. Cook, Iowa "Dry" Worker, Alleged Victim of Bootlegger

More than 200 Klansmen and women of the Klan joined in the funeral services at Vinton, Ia., for Mrs. C. B. Cook, president of the Benton County W. C. T. U., who was shot as she sat sewing at a window of her home. The principal speaker at the services was the Rev. A. A. Wright, Klan Klingle, who is seen in the above of the fashionables, but the idea is no longer the ingenuity of the designer for an extension of its popularity. Personally we should avoid its acquisition, unless the model were particularly becoming. In other words, do not choose an ensemble merely because it is an ensemble—rather select it as you would a separate coat or hat, basing its appeal upon its personal attractiveness and upon the smart factors of the future which it incorporates.

Extremes are rapidly losing their appeal, and bizarre unadorned severity is traveling the same pathway—and for the same reason. The new mode will be feminine and rather more asthetic than its predecessor. It will be a mode of details whose charm will have none of the exaggerated masculinity that served as the dying flare of youthful simplicity. And that is the most significant consideration for the hosts of women who are just now engaged in building wardrobes for the future.

Parisians are placing their fashion interests for the moment almost entirely in an exhibition of dresses and jewels by Callot, Cartier, Jenny, Lanvin and Worth in the pretty little Pavillon de l'Elegance as a part of the Exposition Nationale des Arts Decoratifs. This season the exposition has become the smart center of Parisian society and fashions. A more beautiful display of French frocks has never been exhibited, and after seeing it visitors are bound to be impressed by the fact that Paris will ever remain the fashion center of the world.

The Callot frocks are distinctly Callot in their gorgeous colorings and elaborate embroideries; Jenny is at her best, with her wearable frocks showing particular attention to the daintiness of their detail; Lanvin gives the best of her picturesque creations, which are always worthy of a museum; while Worth is distinctly himself with a rich collection featuring the handsomest of tissues, suggestive of court dresses. Without a display of jewels from Cartier no one could appreciate the true finish of French dress, and this feature rounds out the Pavillon de l'Elegance.

Very Full Fluffy Skirts.
Callot's tulle dresses, with very full fluffy skirts, which appear to wonderful advantage in the exhibition, are gaining in popularity by the minute. They are youthful and are a relief from the extreme straight lines that characterized the mode until this season—they demonstrate that youth may be attained without the slim-line silhouette. Callot's influence in the world of studied fashions is often taken lightly at first, but later invariably becomes more significant. The exhibition models of this great artist, however, are not all of the carefully detailed type. The straightest of straight lines appear in contrast to the newer movement of the flare, but immediately one has the feeling of looking upon them as a fashion of the past, and it is evident that in the not-so-distant future these straight frocks will be considered merely as documents.

A similar impression is conveyed by the Lanvin models. Her full skirts, which she has insisted upon throughout all the years of the slim-line silhouette, seem to speak more of the future than the past. The straight outline is not missing in this collection, but whenever there are clinging lines there is invariably much greater fullness around the ankles.

In the Worth collection mother-of-pearl in various embroidered designs is a strong feature. A dinner dress of wine red georgette crepe is embroidered all over in mother-of-pearl disks.

The Paris arts exposition has also had its effect upon millinery, and many of the modistes are adopting the futuristic trimmings suggested by it. Hand painting, bonnaz stitching, leather and fabric appliques are some of the methods by which the art of the exposition can be translated to modern millinery. Pasted feathers, odd ribbon cocardes and cut-outs in felt, velours and kid already have been used by leading modistes and will undoubtedly be in evidence for autumn.

STOCKHOLDERS IN U. S. I. REALTY CO. FACE MORE TROUBLE

Minneapolis, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Stockholders in the defunct U. S. I. Realty company will be sued for liability to pay creditors the claims they have no hope of collecting from the company's assets, it was learned here today.

The company is said to have lost $1,000,000 in the crash. Only five per cent of claims can be paid from assets. A petition for full assessment of stockholders, many of whom paid $145 for their shares, has been filed in district court.

Tidal Rivers

The term "drowned river system" refers to such a system of tidal rivers as the Hudson, Delaware, Susquehanna, Potomac and James, wherein the trunk valley and its branches were submerged by the sea entering their lower parts because of a sinking of the edge of the continent. This has made possible wonderful harbors at the mouths of these tidal streams.

One-Piece Frock and Straight-Lined Coat

The one-piece frock of blue and white crepe de chine, topped by a straight-lined coat of white flannel, comprises a charming ensemble for summer.

Lace Gown Is Popular for Summer Functions

Navy-blue lace for the evening gown is one of the latest modes. Made in the bouffant style, the bodice is plain, but the skirt is of solid lace ruffles. From the shoulder to hem falls a lace drape.

One model of sea-green chiffon is outstanding because of a narrow train which protrudes from beneath a straight back panel hanging from the neck. The neckline is a deep oval, and extremely low. A wide girle effect is produced by heavy pearl beading, and the skirt, a circular flare, is unusually short.

There also is a recognized vogue for dinner and dance frocks of black lace. The lace is worn over slips of colored silks or plain black and embodies the use of godets, drapes and front aprons. The V-neckline is seen most frequently, although the yoke effect also is used.

A dinner gown achieved distinction with a band of bright silk appliques in bold designs which showed through the lace around the bottom, the rest of the slip being black. Another, lace gown worn over a black slip used pink roses at the side and on the shoulder as the only touch of color. Fullness was given at the side by uneven drapes.

Often chiffon is combined with black lace as a trimming. A slip of blond chiffon worn under black lace falls in godets through openings in the lace in the front and back.

A stenciled chiffon evening gown is made in a bouffant style, the chiffon of the popular orchid shade, tinting into purple. Minute flowers literally cover the skirt and are made of tiny five-cornered pieces of glass partially covered with silk.

Imitation Jewelry Is Still on Fashion List

Imitation jewelry will not down and one sees about the neck of almost every woman some of the pretty things with which the shop she chooses sparkle and glitter. Much of this "fake" jewelry is frankly glass, but even in the beads of emerald, sapphire, ruby or topaz color, good taste and artistic design are evident. The necklaces, chokers or dog collars are now selected to match a woman's gowns, and regarded thus make an intriguing note of color in the fashionable costume. It is entertaining to search among the kaleidoscopic tints for just the right shade of green stones to intensify the shade in a frock, or one aquamarine to make the color in the fabric more definite. And so with each line of color, each of which makes possible an artistic harmony—a string of amber colored beads on a golden brown fabric, carved ivory on "dead" black, emerald on sea green, jade, coral or sapphire on gray or beige.

Cabriolet Hat

The newest hat designed by the Paris milliners is known as the cabriolet hat to distinguish it from the smaller or cab, shapes. Both are small "one horse" hats but the cabriolet is the larger. One distinctive model is of black pleat straw, lined with orange-colored georgette. It is trimmed with black ostrich plumes and flat flowers made of orange ostrich plumes.

$5,000 FIRE AT DE PERE, WIS.

De Pere, Wis., Sept. 21.—(UP)—Damage estimated at about $5,000 was caused here today when fire swept through the Hudson Manufacturing company. The fire of unknown origin started in the paint shop. The Persistent Ensemble.
While the ensemble will again be featured for autumn, as a mark of chic its position will be neutral. In other words, it will neither designate its wearer as smart, nor will it stamp her as demodee. The ensemble has been a vogue too long and its numbers are far too numerous for it to be considered chic as a theme. Distinctly new interpretations of it will certainly find their way to the ranks

Klansmen Attend Funeral of Mrs. Cook, Iowa "Dry" Worker, Alleged Victim of Bootlegger

More than 200 Klansmen and women of the Klan joined in the funeral services at Vinton, Ia., for Mrs. C. B. Cook, president of the Benton County W. C. T. U., who was shot as she sat sewing at a window of her home. The principal speaker at the services was the Rev. A. A. Wright, Klan thegile, who is seen in the above photograph directly back of the leading hooded figure bearing a flag. Under the church portico is C. B. Cook, husband of the slain woman. It is believed that Mrs. Cook was murdered by a bootlegger because of information she gave leading to the arrest of "dry" law violators.

of the fashionables, but the idea is no longer the ingenuity of the designer for an extension of its popularity. Personally we should avoid its acquisition, unless the model were particularly becoming. In other words, do not choose an ensemble merely because it is an ensemble—rather select it as you would a separate coat or hat, basing its appeal upon its personal attractiveness and upon the smart factors of the future which it incorporates.

Extremes are rapidly losing their appeal, and bizarre unadorned severity is traveling the same pathway—and for the same reason. The new mode will be feminine and rather more asthetic than its predecessor. It will be a mode of details whose charm will have none of the exaggerated masculinity that served as the dying flare of youthful simplicity. And that is the most significant consideration for the hosts of women who are just now engaged in building wardrobes for the future.

Parisians are placing their fashion interests for the moment almost entirely in an exhibition of dresses and jewels by Cartier, Cartier, Jenny, Lanvin and Worth in the pretty little Pavillon de l'Elegance as a part of the Exposition Nationale des Arts Decoratifs. This season the exposition has become the smart center of Parisian society and fashions. A more beautiful display of French frocks has never been exhibited, and after seeing it visitors are bound to be impressed by the fact that Paris will ever remain the fashion center of the world.

The Callot frocks are distinctly Callot in their gorgeous colorings and elaborate embroideries; Jenny is at her best, with her wearable frocks showing particular attention to the daintiness of their detail; Lanvin gives the best of her picturesque creations, which are always worthy of a museum; while Worth is distinctly himself with a rich collection featuring the handsomest of tissues, suggestive of court dresses. Without a display of jewels from Cartier no one could appreciate the true finish of French dress, and this feature rounds out the Pavillon de l'Elegance.

Very Full Fluffy Skirts.

Callot's tulle dresses, with very full fluffy skirts, which appear to wonderful advantage in the exhibition, are gaining in popularity by the minute. They are youthful and are a relief from the extreme straight lines that characterized the mode until this season—they demonstrate that youth may be attained without the slim-line silhouette. Callot's influence in the world of studied fashions is often taken lightly at first, but later invariably becomes more significant. The exhibition models of this great artist, however, are not all of the carefully detailed type. The straightest of straight lines appear in contrast to the newer movement of the flare, but immediately one has the feeling of looking upon them as a fashion of the past, and it is evident that in the not-so-distant future these straight frocks will be considered merely as documents.

A similar impression is conveyed by the Lanvin models. Her full skirts, which she has insisted upon throughout all the years of the slim-line silhouette, seem to speak more of the future than the past. The straight outline is not missing in this collection, but whenever there are clinging lines there is invariably much greater fullness around the ankles.

In the Worth collection mother-of-pearl in various embroidered designs is a strong feature. A dinner dress of wine red georgette crepe is embroidered all over in mother-of-pearl disks.

The Paris arts exposition has also had its effect upon millinery, and many of the modistes are adopting the futuristic trimmings suggested by it. Hand painting, bonnaz stitching, leather and fabric appliques are some of the methods by which the art of the exposition can be translated to modern millinery. Pasted feathers, odd ribbon cordages and cut-outs in felt, velours and kid already have been used by leading modistes and will undoubtedly be in evidence for autumn.

STOCKHOLDERS IN U. S. I. REALTY CO. FACE MORE TROUBLE

Minneapolis, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Stockholders in the defunct U. S. I. Realty company will be sued for liability to pay creditors the claims they have no hope of collecting from the company's assets, it was learned here today.

The company is said to have lost $1,000,000 in the crash. Only five per cent of claims can be paid from assets. A petition for full assessment of stockholders, many of whom paid $145 for their shares, has been filed in district court.

Tidal Rivers

The term "drowned river system" refers to such a system of tidal rivers as the Hudson, Delaware, Susquehanna, Potomac and James, wherein the trunk valley and its branches were submerged by the sea entering their lower parts because of a sinking of the edge of the continent. This has made possible wonderful harbors at the mouths of these tidal streams.

One-Piece Frock and Straight-Lined Coat

The one-piece frock of blue and white crepe de chine, topped by a straight-lined coat of white flannel, comprises a charming ensemble for summer.

Lace Gown Is Popular for Summer Functions

Navy-blue lace for the evening frock is one of the latest modes. Made in the bouffant style, the bodice is plain, but the skirt is of solid lace ruffles. From the shoulder to hem falls a lace drape.

One model of sea-green chiffon is outstanding because of a narrow train which protrudes from beneath a straight back panel hanging from the neck. The neckline is a deep oval, and extremely low. A wide girde effect is produced by heavy pearl beading, and the skirt, a circular flare, is unusually short.

There also is a recognized vogue for dinner and dance frocks of black lace. The lace is worn over slips of colored silks or plain black and embodies the use of godets, drapes and front aprons. The V-neckline is seen most frequently, although the yoke effect also is used.

A dinner gown achieved distinction with a band of bright silk appliques in bold designs which showed through the lace around the bottom, the rest of the slip being black. Another, lace gown worn over a black slip used pink roses at the side and on the shoulder as the only touch of color. Fullness was given at the side by uneven drapes.

Often chiffon is combined with black lace as a trimming. A slip of blond chiffon worn under black lace falls in godets through openings in the lace in the front and back.

A stenciled chiffon evening gown is made in a bouffant style, the chiffon of the popular orchid shade, toning into purple. Minute flowers literally cover the skirt and are made of tiny five-cornered pieces of glass partially covered with silk.

Imitation Jewelry Is Still on Fashion List

Imitation jewelry will not down and one sees about the neck of almost every woman some of the pretty things with which the shop showcases sparkle and glitter. Much of this "fake" jewelry is frankly glass, but even in the beads of emerald, sapphire, ruby or topaz color, good taste and artistic design are evident. The necklaces, chokers or dog collars are now selected to match a woman's gowns, and regarded thus make an intriguing note of color in the fashionable costume. It is entertaining to search among the kaleidoscopic tints for just the right shade of green stones to intensify the shade in a frock, or one aquamarine to make the color in the fabric more definite. And so with each line of color, each of which makes possible an artistic harmony—a string of amber colored beads on a golden brown fabric, carved ivory on "dead" black, emerald on sea green, jade, coral or sapphire on gray or beige.

Cabriolet Hat

The newest hat designed by the Paris milliners is known as the cabriolet hat to distinguish it from the smaller or cab, shapes. Both are small "one horse" hats but the cabriolet is the larger. One distinctive model is of black picot straw, lined with orange-colored georgette. It is trimmed with black ostrich plumes and flat flowers made of orange ostrich plumes.

De Pere, Wis., Sept. 21.—(UP)—Damage estimated at about $5,000 was caused here today when fire swept through the Hudson Manufacturing company. The fire of unknown origin started in the paint shop. ## HICKORY STICK SCHOOL DAYS

MANY of the old-timers remember the days of the hickory stick in their period of early absorption of knowledge. Since then there have been many arguments, many of the old-timers arguing that the seat of knowledge was materially improved by an application of a hickory stick in the hands of a stalwart teacher, and thus setting at variance the modern days when corporal punishment has been almost entirely discarded.

The three R's were vigorously emphasized in the early days. Every one will admit that penmanship was more legible in the old days than in the present era. But arithmetic was always a stumbling block, and it seemed that the hickory stick might have caused the scholars of the old days to scale greater heights in mathematical domains.

While figures are seldom conclusive, says the Minneapolis Tribune, it might be well for these critics to ponder the result of tests conducted recently in the Chicago public schools. Children of these schools, given an arithmetic test in which their grandparents failed ignobly 50 years ago, came through the examination with flying colors, averaging a grade of 76.1 in comparison with that of 52.7 for the children of 1875. Fifteen per cent of the present day examinees submitted perfect papers in contrast to a mere 3 per cent registered by those tested during the hickory stick regime. Furthermore, none of the 1925 children failed in the tests, whereas 5 per cent of their grandparents were unable to make a passing grade.

Minneapolis school children (and we may add Brainerd scholars, too), with their "brass tacks" training, could undoubtedly give as good an account of themselves. The critics of the modern school system, for all they decry its frills and fripperies, will undoubtedly be quite willing to rest on their laurels, rather than challenge the youth of today to any such revelatory competition as that conducted in Chicago.

ATTACKING 18TH AMENDMENT

CONGRESSMAN HILL of Maryland has started a movement against the 18th amendment, giving it publicity in an address he made in Nebraska. The congressman, it will be remembered, early before last general election, gave a hard cider party at his farm near Washington, D. C., and invited trouble so it could be made an issue.

Of course, he had a large party present. There are always thirsty people in any community. The fact that the enforcement of prohibition costs money and time and effort indicates that it is difficult to legislate out of existence the thirst cultivated by some people before the advent of the 18th amendment.

Brewers of beer are now advancing a liberalization plan, which the Anti-Saloon League views askance. It provides that the brewers, in return for liberalization, will throw their support squarely against the bootleggers and other sellers of "hard" liquor. This plan will be discussed at the brewers convention in New York tomorrow.

The Federal Council of Churches has had its research bureau examining into the first five years of prohibition in America and its reports have been given the widest publicity. In spite of its criticism of many of the results of prohibition and some of the attempts at enforcement, the council has affirmed its belief in prohibition and says to the churches belongs the work of conducting a campaign of education to promote the success of prohibition.

SERVICE AND COURTESY

It has been the experience of the Portland Electric Power company that service and courtesy are two leading agencies for success. This is recognized in all business. These rules are emphasized by the Portland corporation:

When the customer comes in with a complaint, don't send him or her from pillar to post, for that irritates. Classify all complaints. Study the cause of complaints and eradicate them at their source.

Completeness of your reply is only one-half courtesy; for the manner of your reply is the other half.

Be polite and pleasant, thus making the party glad he or she called on you.

Show individuality to each customer; make him feel he is "Mr. Simpson" and not just one of the throng. Get the other fellow's point of view. Don't argue, but inform.

We knew, in the old days, of one corporation which met a customer's complaint with a counter-argument, logically trying to prove that the customer did not know what he was talking about. We also found, in the old days, a habit prevalent among employees to receive a complaint and then "pass the buck."

CONSTITUTION HAS A BIRTHDAY

The constitution of the United States had a birthday on September 17. It was recognized in the same fashion as dad's birthday. Nobody paid much attention to it. So far as we know, the Kiwanis was the only luncheon club that had exercises.

This constitution has stood the test of time and after 137 years no serious flaws have been found in the instrument. The original framers of the constitution build wisely and well, and showed far-sighted vision.

Among the amendment added are those abolishing slavery, providing for direct election of senators, the prohibition amendment and the woman's suffrage amendment.

The constitution is the bulwark and foundation of our liberty.

THE St. Cloud Daily Times recommends a mentality test for all members of municipal, state and national legislative bodies. It suggests further that these tests be made in committee and before the roll is called on each bill. Within the statute books is found the most convincing argument for mentality tests for the lawmakers.

NATION'S AIR FORCES
ARE ON TRIAL TODAY

combatant forces employed in a theatre of operations must be under a single command; consequently proper co-ordination of effort and unity of command require that air forces must be included in the army and navy."

Davis, in opening his statement, welcomed this inquiry into the air defenses of the country by this board of disinterested citizens.

"The people," Davis said, "have the right to know whether appropriations are being wisely and economically expended and whether the defenses of the country are planned, organized and equipped in the most effective manner."

"The war department impugns the motives of no critics," he said.

"It has the right to demand the same fair dealing for itself."

"In carrying out its serious responsibility for the national defense it is morally bound to insist that mere assertions must be backed up by hard facts, that due consideration must be given to the costly experience of the past in weighing speculations as to the future, that change for the sake of change alone is unjustifiable."

"We may honestly differ as to the ways and means of accomplishment," Davis said, apparently referring to the critical charges made by Colonel William Mitchell and others against his department.

"In such a discussion there is no place for passion, personalities or prejudices. In that spirit we welcome this inquiry."

All war department studies, records and reports, whether public, confidential or secret, are at the disposal of the committee, Davis said. He confined himself to "general statements of policy," he said. Leaving technical details to his assistants, including Major General Mason T. Patrick, chief of the army air service; Major General John L. Hines, chief of staff, and Brigadier General Hugh A. Drum, assistant chief of staff, who were present at the first session.

"I believe that our personnel is at least equal in skill, hardihood and bravery to that of any other nation," Davis said.

"The equipment is inadequate in numbers and part of it, built during the war, unsatisfactory in condition, a condition which is gradually improving. This condition is due solely to lack of money and can be remedied only by money."

The creation of an extensive commercial air transportation system offers "far reaching advantages" to national defense preparedness, Davis said.

"It will provide a reserve of both flying and ground personnel for rapid development in an emergency."

Pershing Brought Into Inquiry

General John J. Pershing, commander of the American armies in the world war, was brought into the inquiry in a statement against the Mitchell unification plan, through a letter read by Brigadier General Hugh Drum, assistant chief of staff.

"A separate air service could never win a war," Pershing, who is now in South America, stated. "The air forces must be controlled in the same manner as the other branches of the army."

Major General John M. Hines, chief of staff, told the board emphatically that the present army aviation organization should be retained substantially in its present form. He prefaced this statement with a declaration that there should be single air service under a separate cabinet minister, no unified air service under either the army or the navy and no "marine corps" scheme whereby the aviation forces would be separately organized under the war department.

General Hines' Statement

"The air service, because of the limitations imposed by natural laws on the operation of aircraft as well as the necessity for unity of action, will always be an auxiliary arm of the service," General Hines said in his statement.

The air forces can never by themselves defeat an enemy, Hines said. Air operations and ground operations must be under one directing head, he said.

"Co-ordinate rank and authority in the government," given to an aviation department, Hines said, "would tend to develop an auxiliary arm out of proportion to its proper role in national defense and beyond the limit which its powers justify."

War Department Testimony
Groundwork for its investigation of the administration of the air service, the United States army and its policies, was laid today by President Coolidge's aircraft inquiry board by three ranking officials of the war department.

American and Italian World War veterans are shown at the ceremonies marking the dedication of the Quentin Roosevelt Memorial Garden at Sancy near the spot where the former President's aviator son was killed in battle. Allied troops who fell in battle near the town have also been honored by a memorial tablet.

Major General John L. Hines, chief of staff, and Brigadier General Hugh Drum, assistant chief of staff, gave statements respectively as to general aircraft policies of the department, administrative objections to a unified air service and difficulties of unified air service operation as experienced by other powers.

General John Pershing was placed squarely on record as opposing a unified air service, such as Colonel William Mitchell advocates, through a letter written from South America where he now is.

Davis admitted to the committee that the equipment of the army air service is inadequate and some of it poor in condition, but ascribed the situation to the economy program of the administration and declared the only remedy was more money.

Major General Mason T. Patrick, chief of the army air service, testifying at an afternoon session added to Davis' statement on the material inadequacy of the air service a declaration that the personnel of the air service is inadequate.

"Our personnel," said Patrick, "is too small to carry out the mission of the air service in peace or war times."

Patrick said the service had 904 officers, 103 flying cadets and 8,601 enlisted men.

NAVAL BOARD OF INQUIRY CONVENES

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 21.—In an effort to fix responsibility for the wrecking of the dirigible Shenandoah, which cost the lives of 14 officers and men, a naval board of inquiry will convene here today at 1 P. M.

Examination of witnesses will not begin until Wednesday. Today and tomorrow will be devoted to the preliminaries of preparing records, assembling exhibits and outlining the details of questioning.

SHENANDOAH WAS
"READY IN ALL RESPECTS"

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 21.—The Shenandoah was "ready in all respects" before the flight which ended so disastrously near Caldwell, O., according to the report of Lieutenant Charles E. Rosendal, one of the surviving officers, read before the naval court of inquiry here today.

"August 31, 1925, the Shenandoah was reported to the commanding officer as in all respects ready for flight," Rosendal's report stated.

The naval court convened this afternoon in its first hearing to ascertain the cause and fix the responsibility for the destruction of the giant dirigible which cost the lives of 14 officers and men.

The ship was unlocked and taken out of the hangar on Tuesday, September 1 and no unusual events occurred, the report continued.

"At 2:52 P. M. Wednesday the Shenandoah cast off from the Lakehurst mast."

"Everything in the ship was functioning normally. The air speed registered 38 knots. The altitude was set at 2,000 feet."

The report then quoted from the log the dirigible passed over various towns in its westward journey.

vice, today was relieved from active duty as air officer of the eighth corps area, Major General John L. Hines, chief of staff of the army, was informed this afternoon in a telegram from Major General Ernest Hines, commander of the eighth area.

Whether this action was to permit Mitchell to come to Washington to defend his charges before the special aircraft board, or was preliminary to court martialing him for insubordination, was not known here.

MAJOR HINES MAKES NO COMMENT ON CASE

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 21.—Colonel William Mitchell was today relieved as air officer of the eighth army corps.

The announcement was made by General Ernest Hines, commander, without comment.

Presumption is that the colonel will stand relieved of his office until aircraft investigation is completed and his case disposed of, most likely by court martial. The announcement merely stated that Colonel Mitchell would stand relieved until further notice.

In addition to being relieved Mitchell was also ordered to report to Washington to appear as a witness in the aircraft inquiry Monday.

According to present plans Mitchell will fly to Washington, going by way of Muskogee, St. Louis and Dayton.

Who Makes the Price of Gasoline?

The public is slow to commend—it is quick to condemn—but when it has the facts it is fair.

It has become a habit for many people to blame the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) when in their judgment the price of gasoline is too high.

To analyze this condition is to conclude that it is only the penalty we pay for being big, but as our size reflects only the scope of the service we render, we must accept such degree of responsibility as may be properly charged to our account.

In the United States there are 590 refineries of oil, of which only 7 are operated by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

In view of the sharp competition evidenced by this number of factors in the field, it must be obvious that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) can neither throttle competition nor control prices.

That all refiners are subject to the same economic laws, is supported by the downward movement of the price of gasoline, brought about by the recent heavy increase in crude oil production. This condition obtains not only in the ten states in which this Company operates but on the Atlantic and the Pacific seaboards; also in the North and in the South.

The acknowledged leadership and efficiency of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) gives plausibility to an impression of unlimited power, rather more than is justified by the facts.

But within the exceedingly limited margin of control exercised by this Company, price changes, either up or down, are made only after exhaustive study of every factor involved.

It is the constant endeavor of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to maintain a balance in gasoline prices, which will give our customers the benefit of all savings effected by efficiency—to which we believe they are justly entitled—and yet insure an uninterrupted supply of fuel to run your car.

It is submitted to the intelligent and fair-minded public that this policy is far-reaching and constructive; that it makes for superior service; establishes a dependable supply of gasoline and maintains the high quality of the product.

CONSTITUTION HAS A BIRTHDAY

THE constitution of the United States had a birthday on September 17. It was recognized in the same fashion as dad's birthday. Nobody paid much attention to it. So far as we know, the Kiwanis was the only luncheon club that had exercises.

This constitution has stood the test of time and after 137 years no serious flaws have been found in the instrument. The original framers of the constitution builded wisely and well, and showed far-sighted vision.

Among the amendment added are those abolishing slavery, providing for direct election of senators, the prohibition amendment and the woman's suffrage amendment.

The constitution is the bulwark and foundation of our liberty.

THE St. Cloud Daily Times recommends a mentality test for all members of municipal, state and national legislative bodies. It suggests further that these tests be made in committee and before the roll is called on each bill. Within the statute books is found the most convincing argument for mentality tests for the lawmakers.

NATION'S AIR FORCES ARE ON TRIAL TODAY

combatant forces employed in a theatre of operations must be under a single command; consequently proper co-ordination of effort and unity of command require that air forces must be included in the army and navy."

Davis, in opening his statement, welcomed this inquiry into the air defenses of the country by this board of disinterested citizens.

"The people," Davis said, "have the right to know whether appropriations are being wisely and economically expended and whether the defenses of the country are planned, organized and equipped in the most effective manner."

"The war department impugns the motives of no critics," he said. "It has the right to demand the same fair dealing for itself."

"In carrying out its serious responsibility for the national defense it is morally bound to insist that mere assertions must be backed up by hard facts, that due consideration must be given to the costly experience of the past in weighing speculations as to the future, that change for the sake of change alone is unjustifiable."

"We may honestly differ as to the ways and means of accomplishment," Davis said, apparently referring to the critical charges made by Colonel William Mitchell and others against his department.

"In such a discussion there is no place for passion, personalities or prejudices. In that spirit we welcome this inquiry."

All war department studies, records and reports, whether public, confidential or secret, are at the disposal of the committee, Davis said. He confined himself to "general statements of policy," he said. Leaving technical details to his assistants, including Major General Mason T. Patrick, chief of the army air service; Major General John L. Hines, chief of staff, and Brigadier General Hugh A. Drum, assistant chief of staff, who were present at the first session.

"I believe that our personnel is at least equal in skill, hardihood and bravery to that of any other nation," Davis said.

"The equipment is inadequate in numbers and part of it, built during the war, unsatisfactory in condition, a condition which is gradually improving. This condition is due solely to lack of money and can be remedied only by money."

The creation of an extensive commercial air transportation system offers "far reaching advantages" to national defense preparedness, Davis said.

"It will provide a reserve of both flying and ground personnel for rapid development in an emergency."

Pershing Brought Into Inquiry

General John J. Pershing, commander of the American armies in the world war, was brought into the inquiry in a statement against the Mitchell unification plan, through a letter read by Brigadier General Hugh Drum, assistant chief of staff.

"A separate air service could never win a war," Pershing, who is now in South America, stated. "The air forces must be controlled in the same manner as the other branches of the army."

Major General John M. Hines, chief of staff, told the board emphatically that the present army aviation organization should be retained substantially in its present form. He prefaced this statement with a declaration that there should be single air service under a separate cabinet minister, no unified air service under either the army or the navy and no "marine corps" scheme whereby the aviation forces would be separately organized under the war department.

General Hines' Statement

"The air service, because of the limitations imposed by natural laws on the operation of aircraft as well as the necessity for unity of action, will always be an auxiliary arm of the service," General Hines said in his statement.

The air forces can never by themselves defeat an enemy, Hines said. Air operations and ground operations must be under one directing head, he said.

"Co-ordinate rank and authority in the government," given to an aviation department, Hines said, "would tend to develop an auxiliary arm out of proportion to its proper role in national defense and beyond the limit which its powers justify."

War Department Testimony

Groundwork for its investigation of the administration of the air service, the United States army and its policies, was laid today by President Coolidge's aircraft inquiry board by three ranking officials of the war department.

Acting Secretary of War Davis,

American and Italian World War veterans are shown at the ceremonies marking the dedication of the Quentin Roosevelt Memorial Garden at Sancy near the spot where the former President's aviator son was killed in battle. Allied troops who fell in battle near the town have also been honored by a memorial tablet.

Major General John L. Hines, chief of staff, and Brigadier General Hugh Drum, assistant chief of staff, gave statements respectively as to general aircraft policies of the department, administrative objections to a unified air service and difficulties of unified air service operation as experienced by other powers.

General John Pershing was placed squarely on record as opposing a unified air service, such as Colonel William Mitchell advocates, through a letter written from South America where he now is.

Davis admitted to the committee that the equipment of the army air service is inadequate and some of it poor in condition, but ascribed the situation to the economy program of the administration and declared the only remedy was more money.

Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, testifying at an afternoon session added to Davis' statement on the material inadequacy of the air service a declaration that the personnel of the air service is inadequate.

"Our personnel," said Patrick, "is too small to carry out the mission of the air service in peace or war times."

Patrick said the service had 904 officers, 103 flying cadets and 8,601 enlisted men.

NAVAL BOARD OF INQUIRY CONVENES

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 21.—In an effort to fix responsibility for the wrecking of the dirigible Shenandoah, which cost the lives of 14 officers and men, a naval board of inquiry will convene here today at 1 P. M.

Examination of witnesses will not begin until Wednesday. Today and tomorrow will be devoted to the preliminaries of preparing records, assembling exhibits and outlining the details of questioning.

SHENANDOAH WAS 'READY IN ALL RESPECTS'

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 21.—The Shenandoah was "ready in all respects" before the flight which ended so disastrously near Caldwell, O., according to the report of Lieutenant Charles E. Rosendal, one of the surviving officers, read before the naval court of inquiry here today.

"August 31, 1925, the Shenandoah was reported to the commanding officer as in all respects ready for flight," Rosendal's report stated.

The naval court convened this afternoon in its first hearing to ascertain the cause and fix the responsibility for the destruction of the giant dirigible which cost the lives of 14 officers and men.

The ship was unlocked and taken out of the hangar on Tuesday, September 1 and no unusual events occurred, the report continued.

"At 2:52 P. M. Wednesday the Shenandoah cast off from the Lakehurst mast."

"Everything in the ship was functioning normally. The air speed registered 38 knots. The altitude was set at 2,000 feet."

The report then quoted from the log the dirigible passed over various towns in its westward journey.

Whether this action was to permit Mitchell to come to Washington to defend his charges before the special aircraft board, or was preliminary to court martialing him for insubordination, was not known here.

MAJOR HINES MAKES NO COMMENT ON CASE

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 21.—Colonel William Mitchell was today relieved as air officer of the eighth army corps.

The announcement was made by General Ernest Hines, commander, without comment.

Presumption is that the colonel will stand relieved of his office until aircraft investigation is completed and his case disposed of, most likely by court martial. The announcement merely stated that Colonel Mitchell would stand relieved until further notice.

In addition to being relieved Mitchell was also ordered to report to Washington to appear as a witness in the aircraft inquiry Monday.

According to present plans Mitchell will fly to Washington, going by way of Muskogee, St. Louis and Dayton.

Fez, Morocco, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Infantry operations against the Rifians must cease by October 15, according to experienced soldiers, who ridiculed today the idea that they could carry on beyond that date in view of the fast approaching rainy season.

They pointed out that General Naulin could scarcely expect to accomplish more this year than to put his new line into condition to resist attacks and prepare for another forward jump at his own time.

Who Makes the Price of Gasoline?

The public is slow to commend—it is quick to condemn—but when it has the facts it is fair.

It has become a habit for many people to blame the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) when in their judgment the price of gasoline is too high.

To analyze this condition is to conclude that it is only the penalty we pay for being big, but as our size reflects only the scope of the service we render, we must accept such degree of responsibility as may be properly charged to our account.

In the United States there are 590 refineries of oil, of which only 7 are operated by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

In view of the sharp competition evidenced by this number of factors in the field, it must be obvious that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) can neither throttle competition nor control prices.

That all refiners are subject to the same economic laws, is supported by the downward movement of the price of gasoline, brought about by the recent heavy increase in crude oil production. This condition obtains not only in the ten states in which this Company operates but on the Atlantic and the Pacific seaboard; also in the North and in the South.

The acknowledged leadership and efficiency of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) gives plausibility to an impression of unlimited power, rather more than is justified by the facts.

But within the exceedingly limited margin of control exercised by this Company, price changes, either up or down, are made only after exhaustive study of every factor involved.

It is the constant endeavor of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to maintain a balance in gasoline prices, which will give our customers the benefit of all savings effected by efficiency—to which we believe they are justly entitled—and yet insure an uninterrupted supply of fuel to run your car.

It is submitted to the intelligent and fair-minded public that this policy is far-reaching and constructive; that it makes for superior service; establishes a dependable supply of gasoline and maintains the high quality of the product.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Pierce Phillips, penniless in Alaska, where he has gone to seek his fortune in the newly discovered gold fields of the Yukon, hires himself out packing provisions over Chilkoot Pass. In this manner he hopes to acquire the money required by the Canadian government to enter the country.

On the back-breaking ascent to the Pass he meets up with a friendly French-Canadian giant who offers words of encouragement. An old man, Tom Linton, accompanies him and Pierce is invited to share Tom's tent at Linderman.

Arriving at the camp they find it occupied by a beautiful woman, a Norsewoman, from all appearances, who asks that she may be allowed to stay and dry her clothing. She explains that her canoe has capsized in the rapids and part of her camp outfit lost.

During this speech delivered in a matter-of-fact, business-like tone, the owner of the tent had managed to overcome his first surprise; he removed his hat now and began with an effort:

"I'm a bad hand at begging pardons, miss, but you see I've been suffering the pangs of bereavement lately over some dear, departed grub. I thought you were a thief and I looked forward to the pleasure of seeing you dance. I apologize. Would you mind telling me where you came from?"

"From Dawson." There was a silence the while the flaxen-haired woman eyed her interrogator less disdainfully. "Yes, by poling-boat and birch-bark. I'm not feeling the law; I'm not a cache-robber."

"You're—all alone?"

The woman nodded. "Can you stow me away for the night? You may name your own price."

"The price won't cripple you, I'm sorry there ain't more women here at Linderman, but—there ain't. We had one—a doctor's wife, but she's gone."

"I met her at Lake Marsh."

"We've a lot more coming, but

"... I've got a partner named Jerry. Put the two together and drink hearty..."

they're not here. My name is Linton. The more-or-less Christian prefix thereto is Tom. I've got a partner named Jerry. Put the two together, and drink hearty. This young man is Mr.—" The speaker turned questioning upon Phillips, who made himself known. I'm a family man. Mr. Phillips is a—well, he's a good packer. That's all I know about him. I'm safe and sane, but he's about the right age to propose marriage to you as soon as he gets his breath. A pretty woman in this country has to expect that, as you probably know."

The woman smiled and shook hands with both men, exchanging a grip as firm and as strong as theirs. "I am the Countess Courteau," said she.

"The—which?" Mr. Linton queried, with a start.

The Countess laughed frankly. "It is French, but I'm a Dane. I think my husband bought the title—they are cheap in his country. He was a poor sort of count, and I'm a poor sort of countess. But I'm a good cook—a very good cook indeed—and if you'll excuse my looks and permit me to wear your sweater I'll prepare supper."

Linton's eyes twinkled as he said, "I've never eat with the nobility and I don't know as I'd like their diet, for a steady thing, but—the baking-powder is in that box and we fry with bacon grease."

Wood and water were handy, the Countess Courteau had a quick and capable way, therefore supper was not long delayed. The tent was not equipped for housekeeping, hence the diners held their plates in their laps and either harpooned their food from the frying-pan or ladled it from tin cans, but even so it had a flavor to-night so unaccustomed, so different, that both men grasped the poignant fact that the culinary art is mysteriously wedded to female hands. Mr. Linton voiced this thought in his own manner.

"If a countess cooks like this," he observed, "I'd sure like to board with a duke." Later, while the dishes were being washed and when his visitor had shown no intention of explaining her presence in further detail, he said, whimsically: "See here, ma'am, our young friend has been watching you like he was afraid you'd disappear before he gets an eyeful, and it's plain to be seen that he's devoured by curiosity. As for me, I'm totally lacking in that miserable trait, and I abhor it in others; but all the same, if you don't see fit to tell us pretty quick how you came to pole up from Dawson and what in Heaven's name a woman like you is doing here, alone and without benefit of chaperone, I shall pass away in dreadful agony."

"It's very simple," the Countess told him. "I have important business 'outside.' I couldn't go down the river, for the Yukon is low, the steamers are aground on the flats, and connections at St. Michael's are uncertain at best. Naturally I came up against the stream. I've been working 'up-stream' all my life." She flashed him a smile at this latter statement. "As for a chaperone—I've never felt the need of one. Do you think they're necessary in this country?"

"Does your husband, Count—"

"My husband doesn't count. That's the trouble." The speaker laughed again and without the faintest trace of embarrassment. "He has been out of the picture for years."

She turned to Phillips and inquired, abruptly, "What is the packing price to Sheep Camp?"

"Fifty cents a pound, coming this way. Going back it is nothing," he told her gallantly.

"I haven't much to carry, but if you'll take it I'll pay you the regular price. I'd like to leave at daylight."

"You seem to be in a rush," Mr. Linton hazarded, mildly.

"I am. Now, then, if you don't mind I'll turn in, for I must be in Dyea tomorrow night."

The Countess Courteau, it seemed to him, was a unique specimen and extremely hard to classify, in that she was neither old nor young—or, what was ever more puzzling, in that she was both. In years she was not far advanced—little older than he, in fact—but in experience, in wisdom, in self-reliance she was vastly his superior; and experience, he believed, is what makes women old. As to the family, the suborder to which she belonged, he was at an utter loss to decide. For instance, she accepted her present situation with a sang-froid equaling that of a camp harpy, a few of whom Pierce had seen; then, too, she was, or had been, married to a no-account for-

"I've got a partner named Jerry. Put the two together and drink hearty..."

they're not here. My name is Linton. The more-or-less Christian prefix thereto is Tom. I've got a partner named Jerry. Put the two together, and drink hearty. This young man is Mr.—" The speaker turned questioning upon Phillips, who made himself known. "I'm a family man. Mr. Phillips is a—well, he's a good packer. That's all I know about him. I'm safe and sane, but he's about the right age to propose marriage to you as soon as he gets his breath. A pretty woman in this country has to expect that, as you probably know."

The woman smiled and shook hands with both men, exchanging a grip as firm and as strong as theirs. "I am the Countess Courteau," said she.

"The—which?" Mr. Linton queried, with a start.

The Countess laughed frankly. "It is French, but I'm a Dane. I think my husband bought the title—they are cheap in his country. He was a poor sort of count, and I'm a poor sort of countess. But I'm a good cook—a very good cook indeed—and if you'll excuse my looks and permit me to wear your sweater I'll prepare supper."

Linton's eyes twinkled as he said, "I've never met with the nobility and I don't know as I'd like their diet, for a steady thing, but—the baking-powder is in that box and we fry with bacon grease."

Wood and water were handy, the Countess Courteau had a quick and capable way, therefore supper was not long delayed. The tent was not equipped for housekeeping, hence the diners held their plates in their laps and either harpooned their food from the frying-pan or ladled it from tin cans, but even so, the Countess, that both men grasped the poignant fact that the culinary art is mysteriously wedded to female hands. Mr. Linton voiced this thought in his own manner.

"If a countess cooks like this," he observed, "I'd sure like to board with a duke." Later, while the dishes were being washed and when his visitor had shown no intention of explaining her presence in further detail, he said, whimsically: "See here, ma'am, our young friend has been watching you like he was afraid you'd disappear before he gets an eyeful, and it's plain to be seen that he's devoured by curiosity. As for me, I'm totally lacking in that miserable trait, and I abhor it in others; but all the same, if you don't see fit to tell us pretty quick how you came to pole up from Dawson and what in Heaven's name a woman like you is doing here, alone and without benefit of chaperone, I shall pass away in dreadful agony."

"It's very simple," the Countess told him. "I have important business 'outside.' I couldn't go down the river, for the Yukon is low, the steamers are aground on the flats, and connections at St. Michael's are uncertain at best. Naturally I came up against the stream. I've been eigner to whom she referred with a caloused and most unwifely flippancy! Moreover, she bore herself with a freedom, a boldness, quite irreconcilable to the modesty of so-called "good women."

The Countess Courteau had been first to arise; she was fully dressed and the sheet-iron stove was glowing when her companions roused themselves. By the time they had returned from the lake she had breakfast ready.

"Old Jerry is going to be awful sore at missing this court function," Mr. Linton told her during the meal. "He's a great ladies' man, Old Jerry is."

"Perhaps I shall meet him." "You wouldn't like him if you did; nobody likes him, except me, and I hate him," Linton sighed. "He's a handicap to a young man like me."

"Why don't you send him home?" "Home?" Old Jerry would die before he'd turn back. He'd lift his muzzle and bay at the very idea until some stranger terminated him. Well, he's my cross; I s'pose I've got to bear him."

"Who is Mr. Linton?" the Countess inquired, as she and Pierce left the village behind them.

"Just an ordinary stamper, like the rest of us, I think."

"He's more than that. He's the kind who'll go through and make good. I dare say his partner is just like him."

Phillips approved of the Countess Courteau this morning even more thoroughly than he had on the evening previous, and they had not walked far before he realized that as a traveler she was the equal of him or any man. She was lithe and strong and light of foot; the way she covered ground awoke his sincere admiration. She did not trouble to talk much and she dispensed with small talk in others; she appeared to be absorbed in her own affairs, and only when they rested did she engage in conversation. The more Phillips studied her and the better acquainted he became with her the larger proportions did she assume. Not only was she complete mistress of herself, but she had a forceful, compelling way with others; there was a natural air of authority about her, and she managed in some subtle manner to invest herself and her words with importance. She was quite remarkable.

"I didn't dream so many were coming," said she.

"It's getting worse daily," Pierce told her. "Dyea is jammed, and so is Skagway. The trails are alive with men."

"How many do you think will come?"

"There's no telling. Twenty, thirty, fifty thousand, perhaps. About half of them turn back when they see the Chilkoot."

"And the rest will wish they had. It's a hard country! not one in a hundred will prosper."

MICKEY WALKER TAKES CHANCE ON HIS TITLE TONIGHT

MEETS DAVE SHADE, THE CALIFORNIA CHALLENGER, IN YANKEE STADIUM

TEX RICKARD WEATHER PROMISES IDEAL CONDITIONS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent
New York, Sept. 21.—For the first time in three years that he has been world's welterweight champion, Mickey Walker will take a chance on his title tonight when he meets Dave Shade, the California challenger, in the Yankee stadium.

Ever since Walker won the title from Jack Britton, Shade has been right behind him, telling the world that Walker was no champion and he would prove it if he got the chance. However, Jack Bulger, the late manager of Walker, and Leo Flynn, Shade's manager, had a falling out and Walker said he never would engage in any fight in which Flynn would share a part of the purse.

New York, Sept. 21.—Tex Rickard weather prevailed today and promised ideal conditions for the Walker-Shade welterweight championship fight tonight in the Yankee stadium.

If unexpected weather should cause a postponement, the fight will be staged Friday night.

The first bout will start at 8:15 p. m. eastern daylight saving time and the preliminaries will consist of Joe Silvana and Johnny Grosso, six rounds; Kid Norfolk and Frank Moody, eight rounds, and Willie Harmon and Jack Zivic, 12 rounds.

When Jack Kearns took over Walker's management he went right after Shade as such a bout was the only big shot in sight and the fight tonight is the result. Walker came down from an 8 to 5 favorite to 6 to 5 today and it is probable that even money will prevail when the fighters enter the ring.

Reports of several competent critics, who saw the champion in his training camp, resulted in the same opinion, that Walker hurt himself getting down to 147 pounds and that he has not been working well.

There is not much chance of a knockout tonight unless Shade elects to make a slugging match of it and in that case either one of them is apt to go. Shade can box better than Walker and the champion is in danger of being outpointed if he wants to stand off and box with the challenger, especially if he is not in shape to last 15 rounds at top speed.

DAVE HAS SLIGHT ADVANTAGE IN WEIGHT

New York, Sept. 21.—Dave Shade will have 2½ pounds advantage in weight when he meets Mickey Walker tonight in an effort to wrest from Walker the welterweight championship crown.

Shade weighed in this afternoon at the office of the New York Boxing commission at 147 pounds. He looked extremely fit for the bout. Walker weighed in at 144½ pounds, which was considered surprising. Mickey looked wan and pale and some sport experts expressed the opinion he might be suffering from over training.

The Pirates now have to win only four more games to be sure of the championship even if the Giants should win all of their 11 games remaining.

MEDAL PLAY FOR THE 67 PRO GOLFERS, CHICAGO

32 PLAYERS WITH LOWEST SCORES FOR 36 HOLES REMAIN IN COMPETITION

BY TRICK OF DRAWINGS THE LEADING PLAYERS TEED OFF FIRST

By EDWARD C. DERR
United Press Staff Correspondent
Olympia Fields Country Club, Chicago, Sept. 21.—Crisp autumn weather greeted the 67 professional golfers today as they started off in the qualifying round of the annual professional golfers' association tournament.

It was medal play today, the 32 players with lowest scores for 36 holes to remain in the competition. They went off in two brackets simultaneously over two 18 holes courses, those playing on course No. 3 in the morning moving to course No. 4 in the afternoon and vice versa.

By a trick of the drawings most of the leading players got off to an early start. Gene Sarazen and Leo Diegel of New York and Al Espinosa, Chicago, went off in a threesome at 19 a. m. over No. 3 course and at the same hour Walter Hagen, St. Petersburg, Fla.; William Creavy, Oklahoma, and Bill Mehlhorn, Chicago, teed off on No. 4. This year's champion may come from one of those six players.

Following these, other threesomes step off at five minute intervals, the last group leaving at 10:55. The afternoon round opens at 2:30.

Al Waterous, Grand Rapids, Mich., showed that he was in great form for the tournament, when he shot a 69 over No. 3 course yesterday. It was the best practice score of the day with most of the three score and seven golfers on the links. Par for that course is 70.

WILLS LOSES HOPE OF MEETING DEMPSEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 21.—After waiting patiently for five years and living on promises, Harry Wills is ready to admit now that he never will get a chance to win the heavyweight championship from Jack Dempsey.

He takes very little stock in the champion's promise to accept his challenge next summer and he has reached the decision to go out and make as much money as he can before he has to hang up the gloves.

This, in the opinion of smart boxing men, is a belated move although he is still enough of an attraction to make a fortune by accepting the numerous offers that have been made to him.

Wills is entitled to some sympathy from the public but he also can be criticized. Dempsey can be blamed for refusing to accept the Wills challenge but the Negro fighter has himself to blame for not forcing Dempsey to fight him.

Wills lost a chance to meet Jess Willard in 1919 because he was content to claim first consideration as the challenger instead of going out and forcing his claim. Dempsey beat Wills to the first crack at Willard by forcing himself to the front. He went out and knocked over every prominent heavyweight in the division and he got so much notice that Wills was forgotten.

Although he should have known better, Wills continued to make verbal claims for a bout with Dempsey and he allowed Bill Brennan, Billy Miske, Tom Gibbons and Luis Firpo to get in ahead of him. If Wills had stepped out three years ago and knocked off all comers, he could have obtained enough public pressure behind him to have forced Dempsey to accept his challenge or to retire.

Even if he should win the championship now, Wills would not have the money field that was ready three or four years ago. The only big money fight he could get would be against Gene Tunney and he is at the age where he couldn't hope to hold the title very long if some good challengers were developed.

There is some glory in the heavyweight championship, of course, but it is the pure bunk to say that money is not the first consideration of every fighter.

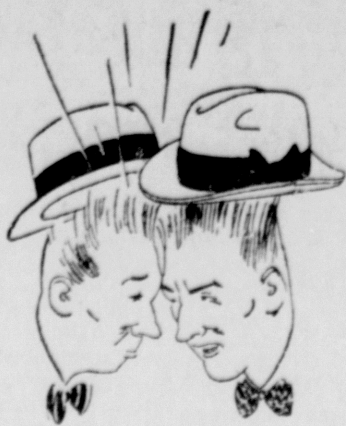

Wills tossed aside a fortune by his inactivity during the past five years. The fights he had were with set-ups and he didn't get much money out of them. This fight with Firpo was his only big shot.

As the outstanding challenger in the last five years—if he had proved it by fighting some real opponents—Wills could have made more money than Dempsey and he would not have been worried and bothered with the cares of a champion.

Good challengers can always make more money in the long run and save more money than a champion.

Two years ago when Dave Shade challenged Mickey Walker for the welterweight championship, Leo Flynn, his manager, was asked why he didn't push his claim.

"When the time comes," he answered, "we'll attend to that. We'll get Walker some day but in the meantime we are making much more money and having much less annoyance than Walker."

The Pirates now have to win only four more games to be sure of the championship even if the Giants should win all of their 11 games remaining.

By EDWARD C. DERR
United Press Staff Correspondent
Olympia Fields Country Club, Chicago, Sept. 21.—Crisp autumn weather greeted the 67 professional golfers today as they started off in the qualifying round of the annual professional golfers' association tournament.

It was medal play today, the 32 players with lowest scores for 36 holes to remain in the competition. They went off in two brackets simultaneously over two 18 holes courses, those playing on course No. 3 in the morning moving to course No. 4 in the afternoon and vice versa.

By a trick of the drawings most of the leading players got off to an early start. Gene Sarazen and Leo Diegel of New York and Al Espinosa, Chicago, went off in a threesome at 19 a. m. over No. 3 course and at the same hour Walter Hagen, St. Petersburg, Fla.; William Creavy, Oklahoma, and Bill Mehlhorn, Chicago, teed off on No. 4. This year's champion may come from one of those six players.

Following these, other threesomes step off at five minute intervals, the last group leaving at 10:55. The afternoon round opens at 2:30.

Al Waterous, Grand Rapids, Mich., showed that he was in great form for the tournament, when he shot a 69 over No. 3 course yesterday. It was the best practice score of the day with most of the three score and seven golfers on the links. Par for that course is 70.

WILLS LOSES HOPE OF MEETING DEMPSEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 21.—After waiting patiently for five years and living on promises, Harry Wills is ready to admit now that he never will get a chance to win the heavyweight championship from Jack Dempsey.

He takes very little stock in the champion's promise to accept his challenge next summer and he has reached the decision to go out and make as much money as he can before he has to hang up the gloves.

This, in the opinion of smart boxing men, is a belated move although he is still enough of an attraction to make a fortune by accepting the numerous offers that have been made to him.

Wills is entitled to some sympathy from the public but he also can be criticized. Dempsey can be blamed for refusing to accept the Wills challenge but the Negro fighter has himself to blame for not forcing Dempsey to fight him.

Wills lost a chance to meet Jess Willard in 1919 because he was content to claim first consideration as the challenger instead of going out and forcing his claim. Dempsey beat Wills to the first crack at Willard by forcing himself to the front. He went out and knocked over every prominent heavy-weight in the division and he got so much notice that Wills was forgotten.

Although he should have known better, Wills continued to make verbal claims for a bout with Dempsey and he allowed Bill Brennan, Billy Miske, Tom Gibbons and Luis Firpo to get in ahead of him. If Wills had stepped out three years ago and knocked off all comers, he could have obtained enough public pressure behind him to have forced Dempsey to accept his challenge or to retire.

Even if he should win the championship now, Wills would not have the money field that was ready three or four years ago. The only big money fight he could get would be against Gene Tunney and he is at the age where he couldn't hope to hold the title very long if some good challengers were developed.

There is some glory in the heavyweight championship, of course, but it is the pure bunk to say that money is not the first consideration of every fighter.

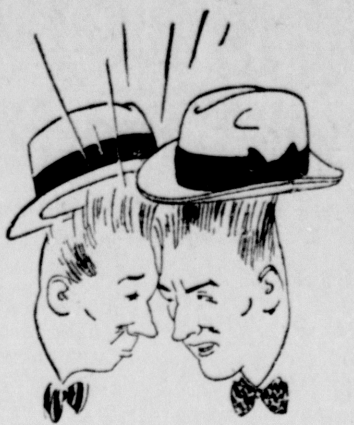

Wills tossed aside a fortune by his inactivity during the past five years. The fights he had were with set-ups and he didn't get much money out of them. This fight with Firpo was his only big shot.

As the outstanding challenger in the last five years—if he had proved it by fighting some real opponents—Wills could have made more money than Dempsey and he would not have been worried and bothered with the cares of a champion.

Good challengers can always make more money in the long run and save money than a champion.

Two years ago when Dave Shade challenged Mickey Walker for the welterweight championship, Leo Flynn, his manager, was asked why he didn't push his claim.

"When the time comes," he answered, "we'll attend to that. We'll get Walker some day but in the meantime we are making much more money and having much less annoyance than Walker."

BRAINERD MAY HAVE A CANNING FACTORY

Depends on Sufficient Acreage Contracted Among Farmers

WISCONSIN MAN COMING

A. Bretschy of Worcester May Erect Plant Here if Conditions Are Favorable

Brainerd may have a canning factory added to its other industries if plans now on foot materialize, and sufficient acreage is contracted among local farmers.

The Lions club has been communicating with several companies that are planning expansion programs in this line, and A. Bretschy, of Worcester, Wis., is interested in the project sufficiently that he will be in the city on Wednesday to look over the local situation and present his proposition before the club at its regular weekly luncheon that evening.

Mr. Bretschy now has a $45,000 pea canning factory in Worcester, and proposes to erect a similar plant in Brainerd if conditions are favorable, and a suitable site can be procured at a fair figure. He comes very highly recommended by responsible people in his home city and by farmers who patronize his plant there.

At least 500 acres would have to be contracted among the farmers in the vicinity of Brainerd to insure such a factory, but it is believed that this would not be a difficult task when the matter is presented in the right light. Whether stock in the factory would be sold to local investors and farmers is not known as yet, although this may possibly be done.

Mr. Bretschy is not, however, a promoter of stock-selling schemes, but has a record in his home city of being a very responsible business man, much interested in civic improvements, and a man whose word can be relied upon. It is reported, if Brainerd is chosen for this factory it is expected that work on the plant will be started this fall.

County Agent E. G. Roth states that soil in Crow Wing county is ideally suited for the raising of peas, which are exceptionally hardy and can be raised to excellent advantage even with a late, backward spring.

Peas are also more easily cultivated than many other vegetables grown for market, and at least fair crops are assured even under adverse weather conditions. Farmers children can be of great assistance in picking the peas, thus keeping the labor costs down to a small item of expense. The profits per acre are sufficient to make it well worth the farmers' time, and little difficulty is experienced in contracting acreage.

There are several canning factories in this section of Minnesota, and all are said to be paying propositions. Wadena has such a plant for the canning of corn, which is operating most successfully, this year being the best in its history, and plans are on foot for enlarging it to take care of a greater acreage next season.

Peas are more easily raised than corn, and it is believed that a pea canning factory would be a better industry than a plant for canning corn in the Brainerd vicinity.

President Coolidge has asked the people who believe in the World Court and in tax reduction to let their congressman know it, in order that said congressmen may represent their constituents by their votes on these questions, when the time comes to legislate.

Many people do not know enough about either subject to form an intelligent opinion about them. If you are one of these, do not fail to come to the Chamber of Commerce next Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, and hear an authoritative discussion of the World Court. It will not cost you a cent of money and less than two hours of time. You will hear what is said to be the best speech Congressman Harold Knutson ever made, and you will also hear some splendid music.

NEW ORGANIST AT THE PARK

Earl Gardner, Formerly of Finkelstein & Ruben Theatres Minneapolis, Takes Over Duties

COMES FROM STATE THEATRE

Presided 6 Weeks in Place of E. J. Dunstader at the State Theatre

Earl Gardner, formerly of the Finkelstein and Ruben theatres in Minneapolis, is to be the new organist at the Park theatre, and has already taken over these duties.

He comes from the State theatre, Minneapolis, where for six weeks he took E. J. Dunstader's place, presiding over the largest theatre organ in the Northwest. Previous to that time he was organist at the Strand and Lyric theatres, and has had ten years experience in such work, with five years additional playing in vaudeville houses, so that he comes to Brainerd exceptionally well prepared to work many innovations in the musical portion of all theatre programs.

Realizing that much of the success of any film program depends upon the manner in which the music is rendered, the management will in the future lay special stress upon the accompaniment, and this is Mr. Gardner's special field. The majority of the big feature pictures now have special musical scores written for them, and it is by the correct interpretation of this music that the public receives the greatest pleasure from the films.

Mr. Gardner has had a lengthy experience in rendering this class of music, and in addition has an exceptionally large musical library of his own, so that Brainerd theatregoers are assured of very high class musical entertainment.

The Park theatre will be operated three days per week during the coming season, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, with road shows on such other nights as may be secured. Mr. Gardner will preside at the Lyceum when the Park is dark.

Mrs. Caroline Moe, mother of Mrs. E. H. Jones, and a pioneer resident of Deerwood, passed away on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the age of 75 years. She had been failing in health for about a year, but did not become seriously ill until three weeks ago.

Mrs. Moe is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Jones of Brainerd, and Mrs. C. M. Jacobson, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and two sons, Anton and Peter, of Deerwood. All were at her bedside when the end came except Peter, who is at present in the northern part of the state, and who could not be reached.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Lutheran church of Deerwood, and the remains laid to rest in the family lot in the Scandia cemetery, south of that village.

FROST SUNDAY KILLS CUCUMBERS

A Few Fields Escape the Cold and May bepared For Short Yield

RECORD SEASON IN LOCAL AREA

Facilities of Heinz Co. Salting Station at Brainerd Taxed to Utmost

The frost of Sunday night practically brought to a close the cucumber season in this county, although a few fields escaped the cold and may be spared a few days of yielding.

However, the next day or two will bring to a close the record season of cucumber raising in this section of the state, according to the H. J. Heinz Company, which has a local salting station in Brainerd, where the facilities were taxed to the utmost to care for the big crop.

Farmers who have been growing cucumbers for the local station are very well pleased with the excellent returns realized from this year's crop. Receipts have ranged from $100 to $200 per acre, it is said, very good returns from small plots, for the average contract is one and one-half acres with only a few planting two acres.

Eugene Veillette, farmer of St. Mathias township, leads in returns, it is said, realizing the most per acre of any of the local growers. Exact figures are not available, but it is believed that he has received at least $200 per acre.

The cucumbers are picked daily, and brought in to the station where they are graded and weighed and cash paid upon delivery. This offers the farmers a crop which brings in cash practically every day from the time the season opens until the frosts kill the plants in the fall.

The Heinz company's plants at Little Falls and Staples closed their seasons more than a week ago, due to early frosts in those neighborhoods. Neither of these stations did the volume of business that was handled at the Brainerd plant.

Negotiations are now under way with the company for a plant in this city for making dill pickles, and it is hoped that this may be started this fall for the handling this year's crop.

Harry Keep and a companion, of Emily, narrowly escaped death by drowning on Saturday afternoon when the Ford truck in which they were riding, plunged down a 60 foot embankment and buried itself in about six feet of water. A defective steering gear is given as the cause of the accident.

Keep and his friend were coming to Brainerd for a load of lumber, it is said, and while rounding the curve at Ahrens bill the steering gear broke or became so loose that the car could not be managed, and it went through the guard rail and down the steep embankment into the water below.

The men were imprisoned in the truck's cab, and had great difficulty in getting the door open under water and making their escape.

The truck was hauled back up the bank with block and tackle, one broken front wheel replaced and the steering gear repaired. No other damage was done to the machine, and the men luckily only suffered minor bruises.

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 21.—(UP)—Arthur Holt, 48, assistant sales manager for the Consumers company was detained by police today in connection with the killing of his wife Lillian, aged 50.

Mrs. Clara Harcot, 21, daughter of the Holts, also was examined. Mrs. Holt was shot to death in the family residence at Fox Lake last night. Holt and the daughter declared the woman committed suicide after a quarrel. Coroner J. L. Taylor who examined the body last night said indications pointed to something other than suicide.

One shot penetrated the head, one shot was in the right breast and two more bullets pierced the chest below the heart, the coroner said.

Albert Harcot, Clara's husband was taken to police headquarters early today when he arrived from Chicago and questioned for possible motives for the affair.

He comes from the State theatre, Minneapolis, where for six weeks he took E. J. Dunstoder's place, presiding over the largest theatre organ in the Northwest. Previous to that time he was organist at the Strand and Lyric theatres, and has had ten years experience in such work, with five years additional playing in vaudeville houses, so that he comes to Brainerd, exceptionally well prepared to work many innovations in the musical portion of all theatre programs.

Realizing that much of the success of any film program depends upon the manner in which the music is rendered, the management will in the future lay special stress upon the accompaniment, and this is Mr. Gardner's special field. The majority of the big feature pictures now have special musical scores written for them, and it is by the correct interpretation of this music that the public receives the greatest pleasure from the films.

Mr. Gardner has had a lengthy experience in rendering this class of music, and in addition has an exceptionally large musical library of his own, so that Brainerd theatregoers are assured of very high class musical entertainment.

The Park theatre will be operated three days per week during the coming season, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, with road shows on such other nights as may be secured. Mr. Gardner will preside at the Lyceum when the Park is dark.

TWO MEN WASHED OVERBOARD AND LOST

Manila, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Claude Stewart, machinist's mate on the Destroyer Ford, and M. J. Sullivan, sailor on the Destroyer Perry, were washed overboard and lost, it was learned here today on arrival of a destroyer fleet.

Stewart lived at Anderson, S. C., Sullivan's home could not be learned. The men were drowned on the evening of September 16, when the fleet of 12 destroyers was en route here from Tsing Tao and encountered a typhoon. Officers declared it was the worst storm of their experience.

The destroyers are here to engage in winter target practice.

MRS. C. MOE DIED

Was Mother of Mrs. E. H. Jones And a Pioneer Resident of Deerwood

Mrs. Caroline Moe, mother of Mrs. E. H. Jones, and a pioneer resident of Deerwood, passed away on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the age of 75 years. She had been failing in health for about a year, but did not become seriously ill until three weeks ago.

Mrs. Moe is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Jones of Brainerd, and Mrs. C. M. Jacobson, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and two sons, Anton and Peter, of Deerwood. All were at her bedside when she died except Peter, who is at present in the northern part of the state, and who could not be reached.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Lutheran church of Deerwood, and the remains laid to rest in the family lot in the Scandia cemetery, south of that village.

FROST SUNDAY KILLS CUCUMBERS

A Few Fields Escape the Cold and May be Spared For Short Yield

RECORD SEASON IN LOCAL AREA
Facilities of Heinz Co. Salting Station at Brainerd Taxed to Utmost

The frost of Sunday night practically brought to a close the cucumber season in this county, although a few fields escaped the cold and may be spared a few days of yielding.

However, the next day or two will bring to a close the record season of cucumber raising in this section of the state, according to the H. J. Heinz Company, which has a local salting station in Brainerd, where the facilities were taxed to the utmost to care for the big crop.

Farmers who have been growing cucumbers for the local station are very well pleased with the excellent returns realized from this year's crop. Receipts have ranged from $100 to $200 per acre, it is said, very good returns from small plots, for the average contract is one and one-half acres with only a few planting two acres.

Eugene Veillette, farmer of St. Mathias township, leads in returns, it is said, realizing the most per acre of any of the local growers. Exact figures are not available, but it is believed that he has received at least $200 per acre.

The cucumbers are picked daily, and brought in to the station where they are graded and weighed and cash paid upon delivery. This offers the farmers a crop which brings in cash practically every day from the time the season opens until the frosts kill the plants in the fall.

The Heinz company's plants at Little Falls and Staples closed their seasons more than a week ago, due to early frosts in those neighborhoods. Neither of these stations did the volume of business that was handled at the Brainerd plant.

Negotiations are now under way with the company for a plant in this city for making dill pickles, and it is hoped that this may be started this fall for the handling this year's crop.

Washington, Sept. 21.—(UP)—After a conference with President Coolidge, Senator Walter E. Edge, republican, New Jersey, announced today that he would introduce a bill in the next congress empowering the president to reorganize the administrative departments of the government.

Abolition of the shipping board and absorption of its present function in the commerce department would be the chief purpose of his bill, Edge declared.

STEERING GEAR DEFECTIVE

Truck Buries Self in 6 Feet of Water, Men Imprisoned for Time in Cab

Harry Keep and a companion, of Emily, narrowly escaped death by drowning on Saturday afternoon when the Ford truck in which they were riding, plunged down a 60 foot embankment and buried itself in about six feet of water. A defective steering gear is given as the cause of the accident.

Keep and his friend were coming to Brainerd for a load of lumber, it is said, and while rounding the curve at Ahrens hill the steering gear broke or became so loose that the car could not be managed, and it went through the guard rail and down the steep embankment into the water below.

The men were imprisoned in the truck's cab, and had great difficulty in getting the door open under water and making their escape.

The truck was hauled back up the bank with block and tackle, one broken front wheel replaced and the steering gear repair. No other damage was done to the machine, and the men luckily only suffered minor bruises.

HOLD HUSBAND IN CONNECTION WITH WIFE'S DEATH

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 21.—(UP)—Arthur Holt, 48, assistant sales manager for the Consumers company was detained by police today in connection with the killing of his wife Lillian, aged 50.

Mrs. Clara Harcot, 21, daughter of the Holts, also was examined. Mrs. Holt was shot to death in the family residence at Fox Lake last night. Holt and the daughter declared the woman committed suicide after a quarrel. Coroner J. L. Taylor who examined the body last night said indications pointed to something other than suicide.

One shot penetrated the head, one shot was in the right breast and two more bullets pierced the chest below the heart, the coroner said.

Albert Harcot, Clara's husband was taken to police headquarters early today when he arrived from Chicago and questioned for possible motives for the affair.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith said he probably would order a formal arrest after the coroner's inquest today. Smith said that all indications pointed to a murder as any one of the four

DEBS ON STUMP FOR WORK IN SENATE CAMPAIGN

SAYS SOCIALIST CANDIDATE IN WISCONSIN REPRESENTS
WORKING CLASSES

URGES WISCONSIN SOCIALISTS TO
GET BACK OF WORK AND
ELECT HIM

By J. E. HELPFERT
United Press Staff Correspondent
Milwaukee, Sept. 21.—Declaring him the only candidate who really represents the working classes, Eugene V. Debs, veteran socialist leader, speaking in the interest of John M. Work, socialist candidate for United States senator, urged Wisconsin socialists to get back of Work and elect him to the senate.

Debs in his long talk did not mention La Follette, as did both Work and Daniel W. Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee, who preceded him on the platform, but urged the socialist to remain in their own party.

His speech was the usual attack upon the "capitalist system," which he blamed for practically every evil from death to divorce.

Robert M. La Follette, republican nominee, today opened his final week's drive before the voters of the state go to the polls to decide definitely upon the man who is to take the seat left vacant by the death of his father, Senator Robert M. La Follette.

Edward F. Dithmar, regular republican, who filed as an independent "emergency" candidate, is alone in the "stalwart" field, since the withdrawal of Roy P. Wilcox, Eau Claire, on Saturday. His campaign opens today.

William George Bruce, independent candidate, who failed to poll sufficient votes to have his name listed under the democratic party designation, has taken a new interest in the fight despite his noticeable discouragement at the primary results.

George Bauman, socialist-labor candidate, who is also listed as an independent, has not announced his plans.

REPRESENTATIVE LA GUARDIA
DECLINES TO HEAD SUCH A TICKET

New York, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Likelihood of a third party in the forthcoming New York mayoralty election has been dissipated with announcement of Representative La Guardia that he would not head an independent ticket.

La Guardia had been regarded as a candidate whom W. R. Hearst, publisher would support since Mayor John F. Hylan and United States Senator Royal S. Copeland refused to consider the leading of an independent movement.

Shakespeare's Power

This therefore is the praise of Shakespeare, that his drama is the mirror of life; that he who has mazed his imagination in following the phantoms which other writers raise up before him, may here be cured of his delirious ecstasies by reading human sentiments in human language, by scenes from which a hermit may estimate the transactions of the world, and a confessor predict the progress of the passions.—Samuel Johnson.

HOTCHKISS IN ATTACK ON PLAN OF WISCONSIN U.

CONDEMNS FURTHER ACTION OF
BOARD OF REGENTS SHUT-
TING OFF DONATIONS

WILL PARALYZE FURTHER RE-
SEARCH WORK AT THE UNIVERSITY

Madison, Wis., Sept. 21.—(UP)—The recent action of the University of Wisconsin board of regents in voting to refuse further donations from educational endowment funds was attacked here today by Professor W. O. Hotchkiss, former state geologist and director of the State Geological society.

Professor Hotchkiss leaves the Badger institution to take the presidency of the Michigan School of Mines in Houghton immediately.

He declared that the regent board had dealt the university the most serious blow it had taken for years and that the regents' action would shortly reduce it to a second or third rate institution.

"With their opportunities curtailed, many faculty members will quickly find other positions where they can continue their research work," Hotchkiss predicted on the eve of his departure from Wisconsin.

Hotchkiss made no mention of the spat which arose Friday between himself and Governor John J. Blaine when the survey board in accepting his resignation, formally desired to incorporate in the minutes of the meeting an appreciation of his long service to the state.

Blaine dissented, saying there were still charges of corruption lodged against Hotchkiss which had not been disposed of. The charges concerned Hotchkiss' activities in assessing mines in which he is said to hold large portions of stock.

CALL MONEY IN SHARP ADVANCE

New York, Sept. 21.—Technical conditions within the market were given a severe test today by a sharp advance in call money which renewed at 4½ per cent and then advanced steadily until a rate of 6 per cent was established in the late afternoon. This flurry gave rise to some hurried unloadings upon last week's rapid gains. At the same time professionals became active on the side of the decline with the result that the general list was forced to absorb heavy offerings.

This pressure brought about substantial recessions in American Can, Mack Truck, Pullman, Detroit Edison and other issues, whose recent spectacular uprushes attracted widespread attention.

However, the market at no time showed any real weakness due to the support afforded by the strength of the rails and of indications of influential buying in General Motors, Fisher Body and Dupont. This accumulation which was traced to Morgan and Dupont interests, kept the selling movement from getting out of bounds, so that the decline proceeded in an orderly fashion.

The market closed lower.

WORKING CLASSES

URGES WISCONSIN SOCIALISTS TO
GET BACK OF WORK AND
ELECT HIM

By J. E. HELPFERT
United Press Staff Correspondent
Milwaukee, Sept. 21.—Declaring him the only candidate who really represents the working classes, Eugene V. Debs, veteran socialist leader, speaking in the interest of John M. Work, socialist candidate for United States senator, urged Wisconsin socialists to get back of Work and elect him to the senate.

Debs in his long talk did not mention La Follette, as did both Work and Daniel W. Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee, who preceded him on the platform, but urged the socialist to remain in their own party.

His speech was the usual attack upon the "capitalist system," which he blamed for practically every evil from death to divorce.

Robert M. La Follette, republican nominee, today opened his final week's drive before the voters of the state go to the polls to decide definitely upon the man who is to take the seat left vacant by the death of his father, Senator Robert M. La Follette.

Edward F. Dithmar, regular republican, who filed as an independent "emergency" candidate, is alone in the "stalwart" field, since the withdrawal of Roy P. Wilcox, Eau Claire, on Saturday. His campaign opens today.

William George Bruce, independent candidate, who failed to poll sufficient votes to have his name listed under the democratic party designation, has taken a new interest in the fight despite his noticeable discouragement at the primary results.

George Bauman, socialist-labor candidate, who is also listed as an independent, has not announced his plans.

3RD PARTY PLAN FIZZLES IN N. Y.

REPRESENTATIVE LA GUARDIA
DECLINES TO HEAD SUCH A TICKET

New York, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Likelihood of a third party in the forthcoming New York mayoralty election has been dissipated with announcement of Representative La Guardia that he would not head an independent ticket.

La Guardia had been regarded as a candidate whom W. R. Hearst, publisher would support since Mayor John F. Hylan and United States Senator Royal S. Copeland refused to consider the leading of an independent movement.

Shakespeare's Power

This therefore is the praise of Shakespeare, that his drama is the mirror of life; that he who has mazed his imagination in following the phantoms which other writers raise up before him, may here be cured of his delicious ecstasies by reading human sentiments in human language, by scenes from which a hermit may estimate the transactions of the world, and a confessor predict the progress of the passions.—Samuel Johnson.

To Remove Iron Rust

Iron rust may be removed (even the worst marks will yield if the worker is persistent) by applying common table salt and the juice of a freshly cut lemon to the stain and holding it over the spot of a steaming teakettle. After a few minutes repeat with a fresh application.

LOWELL BLOCK BURNED IN DULUTH

Duluth, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Several persons were overcome early today when fire partially destroyed the Lowell block, a five story building. Firemen succeeded in confining the flames to the first and second floors. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

HOTCHKISS IN ATTACK ON PLAN OF WISCONSIN U.

CONDEMNS FURTHER ACTION OF
BOARD OF REGENTS SHUT-
TING OFF DONATIONS

WILL PARALYZE FURTHER RE-
SEARCH WORK AT THE UNIVERSITY

Madison, Wis., Sept. 21.—(UP)—The recent action of the University of Wisconsin board of regents in voting to refuse further donations from educational endowment funds was attacked here today by Professor W. O. Hotchkiss, former state geologist and director of the State Geological society.

Professor Hotchkiss leaves the Badger institution to take the presidency of the Michigan School of Mines in Houghton immediately.

He declared that the regent board had dealt the university the most serious blow it had taken for years and that the regents' action would shortly reduce it to a second or third rate institution.

"With their opportunities curtailed, many faculty members will quickly find other positions where they can continue their research work," Hotchkiss predicted on the eve of his departure from Wisconsin.

Hotchkiss made no mention of the spat which arose Friday between himself and Governor John J. Blaine when the survey board in accepting his resignation, formally desired to incorporate in the minutes of the meeting an appreciation of his long service to the state.

Blaine dissented, saying there were still charges of corruption lodged against Hotchkiss which had not been disposed of. The charges concerned Hotchkiss' activities in assessing mines in which he is said to hold large portions of stock.

CALL MONEY IN SHARP ADVANCE

New York, Sept. 21.—Technical conditions within the market were given a severe test today by a sharp advance in call money which renewed at 4 1/4 per cent and then advanced steadily until a rate of 6 per cent was established in the late afternoon. This flurry gave rise to some hurried unloadings upon last week's rapid gains. At the same time, professionals became active on the side of the decline with the result that the general list was forced to absorb heavy offerings. This pressure brought about substantial recessions in American Can, Mack Truck, Pullman, Detroit Edison and other issues, whose recent spectacular uprushes attracted widespread attention.

However, the market at no time showed any real weakness due to the support afforded by the strength of the rails and of indications of influential buying in General Motors, Fisher Body and Dupont. This accumulation which was traced to Morgan and Dupont interests, kept the selling movement from getting out of bounds, so that the decline proceeded in an orderly fashion.

The market closed lower.
